Mitchell Pleads Not Guilty To Charges

Colonel Billy Mitchell Pleads Not Guilty After a Bill of Particulars Are Denied—Court Adjourns Until Monday at 10 o'clock.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 30.—All his technical defenses swept away, Colonel Billy Mitchell, storm center of the nation's aircraft controversy was formally arraigned today before his "jury of generals" and pleaded not guilty "to charges of conduct prejudicial to military discipline by his vigorous verbal denunciations of American aviation policies."

Mitchell made his plea of not guilty eight times, denying each of eight specifications. He faced the court of generals, the highest military tribunal ever assembled in the United States, erect and spoke in a firm clear tone.

The pleading following directly on the heels of another reverse for the defense, the court having denied a motion by Mitchell's counsel for a "bill of particulars."

Third Reverse.
This opinion was rendered by Colonel Blanton Winship, law member of the court, and immediately confirmed by the majority of generals. It was the third reverse for the defense in the last two days and was the final move to delay the actual trial of Mitchell.

With this technicality gone, Mitchell had to face the military court.
Not Guilty Says Mitchell.
When Mitchell entered his plea, the jury and spectators alike maintained a death-like stillness. Colonel Sherman Moreland, trial judge advocate, put the question to the accused flying colonel:
"How do you plead the charge?" Mitchell snapped out the reply: "Not guilty."

Objects to Manual.
As Moreland began to read to the court the parts of the army manual referring to the conduct of a court martial, Representative Frank R. Reid, Republican of Illinois, chief of Mitchell's counsel, objected to the trial being carried out on the rules laid down in the manual.

"The manual has been discarded by this court in its ruling yesterday," said Reid. "I object to this trial being conducted under a discarded manual."

Colonel Winship at once overruled the objection and the court again upheld his decision.

Moreland then read sections of the manual setting out "the gist of the offenses charged" against Mitchell.

Court Adjourns Until Monday.
Court then was adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning, to give both prosecution and defense time in which to interview the government's witnesses, who had just arrived from Texas.

The adjournment came after Reid moved for a list of the prosecution's witnesses. Moreland agreed but asked for a recess until Saturday so both sides could "talk to the witnesses."

Witnesses Arrive.
The witnesses whose arrival caused the adjournment were Lieutenant Colonel G. L. Hicks, from the adjutant general's office in the Eighth Corps Area at San Antonio, and three newspapermen to whom Mitchell issued his statements. These were Kenneth McCalla, of Houston, and Harry McCleary, and A. H. Yeager, both of San Antonio.

Proceedings Are Gloomy.
Only a small crowd turned out for the third session with women again in the majority. The cloudy weather outside and the dreary interior of the court room, with its stained walls, gave the proceedings a gloomy aspect.

In the audience were a number of congressmen, including Representative Florian Lampert, Republican of Wisconsin, chairman of the house aircraft committee and Representative Thomas L. Blanton, Democrat of Texas.

A Secret Session.
The "jury of generals" first met in secret session. During the delay, photographers invaded the court room to snap pictures of several women in the audience, who had brought their knitting to court.

Mitchell sat at his counsel table, talking to his lawyers. The flying colonel again was accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell and his sister, Mrs. Arthur Young of Milwaukee.

Bill of Particulars.
As the court filed in, most of the generals bowed to Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell. The colonel bowed in return. There was no explanation given for the half hour secret session.

Colonel Sherman Moreland, judge advocate, immediately arose and opposed the granting of a "bill of particulars" he declared the defense's motion amounted to the same as an earlier one in which Reid attacked the charges as too general. On the earlier motion, Moreland pointed out the court overruled Reid.

"A bill of particulars has no place in a military court," said Moreland. "I don't think it is necessary here. This brought Reid to his feet. 'I did maintain we had a legal right to have the charges against the accused in specific terms,' said Reid. 'But that was decided yesterday by the court. Now I ask for specific charges as a matter of justice.' The court, in ordinary justice, has the

Renew Attacks Upon Damascus

Druse Tribesmen Reported to Have Renewed Attacks Upon Damascus—Premier Painleve Must Get Rid of General Sarrail.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 30.—Djebel Druse tribesmen have renewed their attacks upon Damascus, according to dispatches received by the foreign office today.

General Sarrail, French high commissioner, has wired that a column under General Camille is under attack from the Druses on the outskirts of Damascus but is holding out and is defending the city with slight losses.

The French foreign office today issued a denial of the report that the United States has filed a formal protest with France against the bombardment of Damascus.

"It is absolutely untrue that Ambassador Herrick has made a formal protest regarding the bombardment of Damascus," Chief de Cabinet Leger told the International News Service. "The French and American administrations possibly may have exchanged correspondence in which the United States requested the French government to safeguard American interests in Syria but there has been nothing beyond this."

Premier Painleve, having rid his cabinet of M. Caillaux, now finds himself again facing serious difficulties over General Sarrail.

Unless Premier Painleve throws General Sarrail overboard he will find himself facing such stiff opposition in the chamber next week that his government may find difficulty in continuing in office.

The impression prevails that General Sarrail's recall is already prepared, if it has not gone forward. Public opinion is deeply aroused over the course of action General Sarrail has followed in Syria.

Charges have been made before the senate committee by M. Millerand that General Sarrail's policy has cost no less than 3,000 French lives and has led to serious damage to French property.

SOFT COAL FUMES THREATENED ELEVEN LIVES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—Soft coal fumes, seeping from the furnace to the upper floors of an apartment house in Brooklyn almost proved fatal to 11 persons today. A policeman hearing faint calls for help, broke down the door and dragged several unconscious persons to the street.

U. S. Foreign Trade Increases

Foreign Commerce of the United States Increased Thirty Per Cent Since 1913—Expect Ten Billion Dollars Business This Year.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 30.—America's sensational commercial conquest of the world—to be climaxed in 1925 with a foreign trade close to $10,000,000,000—was described today by Dr. Julius Klein, foreign commerce director for the government, as "the world's greatest business achievement."

In the reconstruction period while Europe has been torn by international quarrels and wars, industries of the United States, have gone steadily ahead until today they occupy a commanding position in every important market.

Klein put in a few words facts which disclose the commercial ascendancy of this country since 1913:

"Foreign commerce of the United States increased between 1913 and 1925 about thirty per cent. That of France increased five per cent. Meanwhile the trade of Britain stands one per cent under the 1913 total while Germany is twenty-seven per cent below the 1913 commerce."

In spite of America's greater advance Klein referred to the recovery of Europe and "revived buying power for our leading customers" as the outstanding factor in international business today.

"Europe's purchases from us this year probably will approach the formidable figure of $2,700,000,000, comprising not only the staple raw materials—wheat, cotton, copper, and oil—but a rapidly increasing proportion of fabricated wares," Klein said.

"Even a casual survey of the European business situation brings out the fact that the ground work is laid for an enduring edifice of commercial good will and prosperity."

Bulgaria Faces A New Problem

Bulgaria Charges That Greek Action Was To Drive Macedonian Refugees Into Bulgaria—Macedonian Refugees Present a Serious Problem.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Sofia, Oct. 30.—The Greeks having completely evacuated Bulgarian territory, Bulgaria now faces a new problem of population which it looks to the League of Nations to settle.

Charges have been prepared to be laid before the league commission of inquiry, alleging that the clash on the Greco-Bulgarian frontier was entirely due to Greek action in driving Macedonian refugees over the border into Bulgaria. Bulgarian resistance in this influx of new and unwanted population led to the clash, it is charged here.

The Greek invasion, it is claimed, has resulted in 20,000 new Macedonian refugees in Bulgaria, adding to the problems of caring for these people. Bulgaria now has more than a half million Macedonian refugees on its soil and they present an ever-present problem, not alone because of the difficulty in supporting them but because of their continuing plotting and the ever-present menace of their creating a rising which might overthrow the Bulgarian government.

The Bulgarians charge that the Greek occupation was merely a covering move for the herding of Macedonian refugees across the border.

STILLMAN CASE AGAIN SPRINGS INTO LIME LIGHT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—The sensational Stillman case sprang into the limelight again today.

Mrs. Anne C. Stillman, it became known, has begun suit for divorce from James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank. The action will be tried before a referee appointed by the supreme court in Westchester county, and will be on statutory grounds.

Attorneys for both Stillman and Mrs. Stillman took every precaution to prevent knowledge of the suit becoming public.

Stillman could not be found this morning. Mrs. Stillman was inaccessible at Grande Ance, Quebec, 50 miles from a telephone.

Isaac N. Still, who was chief counsel for Mrs. Stillman in her successful defense against her husband's divorce suit, said today that published reports that Mrs. Stillman had filed a suit were "unauthorized."

Wants President As a Witness

Subpoena President Coolidge as Witness in Mitchell Trial Is Plan of Reid—Moreland Sees No Need of Calling President.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 30.—Representative Frank E. Reid, Republican, Illinois, announced this afternoon he would probably demand a subpoena be issued for President Coolidge as a witness in Colonel Billy Mitchell's court martial.

As Mitchell's chief counsel, Reid declared that the president had been named by the war department as the flying colonel's accuser and prosecutor.

"The accused has the right to be faced by his accuser," said Reid. "Under the ruling of the court and the position taken by the trial judge advocate that the president was the accuser and prosecutor, we are entitled to have him confront the accused at this proceeding. If the prosecution doesn't produce him, we will subpoena the president."

The name of President Coolidge was given Mitchell's "jury of generals" as his prosecutor yesterday by Colonel Sherman Moreland, trial judge advocate, when defense counsel insisted that no commanding officer of the accused had endorsed the court martial charges or ordered their investigation, as required by military law.

"Who did recommend the court martial and order an investigation?" "The secretary of war at the instance of the president, who is commander-in-chief of the army," Moreland replied.

Colonel Blanton Winship, law member of the court then used this statement as the basis for a decision on overruling a defense motion to squash the whole proceedings.

In his opinion, later confirmed by the "jury of generals" Winship held that President Coolidge, as commander-in-chief, was Mitchell's commanding officer as required by the army manual.

Moreland, when questioned this afternoon, declared he had not named President Coolidge as Mitchell's accuser.

"This is the construction placed on my statements by the defense," said Moreland. "I said the secretary of war, at the instance of the president, has ordered an investigation of the charges against Mitchell. I see no need for calling the president."

Liberals Lose in Canada's Election

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ottawa, Oct. 30.—Hon. Arthur Meighen's protective tariff policy party continued to pile up its lead as additional returns from the general election slowly trickled in here today.

This afternoon, on the basis of latest figures Meighen's party was certain of 120 out of 245 seats in the House of Commons. The same figures gave the liberals 125.

All hope that late returns might save the liberal party from destruction were dashed this afternoon. Cabinet members, who met defeat with Premier King, are Minister of State Foster; Minister of Trade and Commerce, Minister of Immigration Gordon; Minister of Labor Murdoch; Minister of Railways Granham, and Messrs. Marter and Massey, ministers without portfolios.

The liberal loss was heaviest in the eastern provinces. The Maritime provinces alone turned over to the conservatives all but four out of 29 seats.

The campaign was regarded as the most bitter since the formation of Canadian Confederation.

KREUSE MAY NOT PLAY AGAINST ILLINOIS SATURDAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ashecon, N. J., Oct. 30.—From indications today Al Kreuse, hard hitting fullback of the University of Pennsylvania eleven, will not be with his teammates Saturday afternoon when they will try to stop "Red" Grange and his playmates from the University of Illinois on Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

Kreuse's inability to play means that Penn. will have to use Rogers, Long or Lett for the punting. Pennsylvania took a light workout here today.

New York City's Low Assessments

How New York city enjoys a low assessment in the towns of Olive and Hurley of property which the city owns there is being emphasized when comparison is made with the assessment of New York city property in Schoharie county, where the city is building the Gilboa dam and reservoir and is further emphasized when compared to the assessment of Kingston city property in the town of Woodstock.

Schoharie county assesses the New York city property there for $3,600,000.

The town of Olive, where the bulk of New York city's Ulster county property is located, assesses such property for $475,000.

The town of Hurley, where the second largest section of New York city's Ulster county property is located, assesses such property for $139,592.

In comparison with the assessed valuation of New York city's reservoir property in Schoharie and Kingston city's reservoir property in the town of Woodstock, the assessed valuation of New York city's reservoir property in the town of Olive and Hurley are so extremely low that they have created comment.

What agreements, if any, were made by the towns of Olive and Hurley with the city of New York, and why, are two of the principal questions that are being asked.

Why New York city's property in the towns of Olive and Hurley are so much less valuable than New York city's property in Schoharie county or Kingston city's property in the town of Woodstock are two more questions that are being asked.

The cost of the Gilboa reservoir in Schoharie county is announced to be $6,800,000.

The contract price for the Ashokan dam and dikes was $14,000,000.

Crank Bullets Miss Candidate

Majority Candidate Target of Shots Fired as He Entered His Garage—Another Majority Candidate Receives Threatening Letters.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—Dr. Walter J. McCauley, one of the nine candidates for mayor in the November elections, narrowly escaped with his life early today when two men fired shots at him as he was entering his garage near his home on Jamaica Way, next door to the home of Mayor James M. Curley.

Both bullets whizzed by his head, Dr. McCauley told police, and his efforts to reach the men failed.

Political cranks were thought by police to be responsible for the shooting.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn, another candidate for mayor, has received threats from cranks and is under the constant guard of two motorcycle policemen when he appears on the street.

Dr. McCauley informed the police of the Jamaica Plain station that he had driven into his yard after a night of campaigning, had switched off the lights in his car and had turned to open the garage door when a bullet whizzed by his head. Another shot followed.

Dr. McCauley said he saw two men run away in the darkness. He attempted to follow them. Then, McCauley said, he ran to his home and notified the police by telephone.

A motor patrol filled with policemen rushed to the McCauley home. No trace of the gunmen was found, however.

Dr. McCauley, who is a dentist, told police that within the past few days he has received several threatening letters from persons that were obviously political cranks.

WOMEN PRISONERS BRING CHARGES AGAINST CHAPLAIN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Thomaston, Me., Oct. 30.—Charges that the Rev. Percy J. Clifford, former chaplain of the state prison and one of those to bring complaints of moral laxity, was "too free with his speech and his hands" when talking privately with women prisoners were made today by three women who have been in solitary confinement in a letter to Warden Lester D. Eaton.

The women demanded to be allowed to appear Governor Ralph O. Brewster, his counsel and the state prison board as hearings into alleged conditions at the prison were resumed.

The women, in the letter, asserted that the chaplain's stories of getting and then bon parties in solitary cells were false.

Except for demagogic attacks and acts of brigandage along the high-ways Syria is again returned to normalcy, the general said.

Hunt Anderson In Buffalo

Dutch Anderson and Gang Suspected of Murdering Two Bank Employees—Death Claimed Second Victim of Holdup.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Report that George (Dutch) Anderson, notorious pal of Gerald Chapman, arch criminal, was still in Buffalo at 5 o'clock this morning, inspired police today to redouble their efforts in the hunt for Anderson, Harry Harris and the bandit gang who are suspected of murdering two employees of the Marine Trust Company, wounding a third, and stealing $93,000 in currency in the most sensational hold up in the history of Buffalo.

Harold Brown, night attendant at Dr. Pierce's dispensary, is certain Anderson is the man who walked into the dispensary at 4 o'clock this morning and asked first aid treatment for a bullet wound over his right eye.

Brown kept his patient there for more than an hour, seeking to get word to police. He said the man drove off in an automobile with a Michigan license number.

Patrolman Fred J. McMullen corroborates Brown's story. The officer saw a man answering Anderson's description driving north in Main street past Tupper street. The car was traveling so fast the patrolman could not get the license number.

Mrs. Hombberger, of 23 Danforth street, notified police at 9 o'clock this morning that two men who she believes were members of the bandit gang sought lodging at her house late yesterday. One of the men, she said, had his right arm bandaged.

For the capture of the bandits there is a reward of $10,000 offered by the Marine Trust Company, and the Buffalo Clearing House Association has posted a reward of $10,000 for the capture, dead or alive, of any bandit who figures in the future in a bank holdup.

Harold Brown, night attendant at Dr. Pierce's world dispensary, is sure he talked with Anderson for more than an hour.

If the man was Anderson he had a bullet wound over the right eye, badly discolored and turning black. This indicated, Brown said, that the wound had been inflicted fifteen or eighteen hours previously.

Death last night claimed the second victim in the dramatic holdup and robbery.

Louis M. Yarrington, fifty, of 242 Minnesota avenue, bank messenger, died from the effects of bullet wounds in both lungs. He was shot while doing battle with the bandit gang after they had taken the life of Charles W. Clifford, 42, 23 Landon street. Clifford was shot through the head.

TWO WOMEN CRITICALLY BURNED IN N. Y. FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—Two women were dying today from burns and thirty firemen were recovering from monoxide gas poisoning as the result of two roaring fires last night, one in the upper west side and the other in the Bowery.

Thrilling rescues were revealed today including the saving of a battalion chief by a heroic fireman who, reeling from the noxious gases freed his chief's feet vised under debris by cutting off his boots and then carried him to safety.

The two women Anna Collins and Clara Comba were burned. A policeman, rushing into the house, found Miss Collins and Miss Comba, unconscious on the top land, lying with their clothes afire.

The second fire was in a lodging house at 92 Bowery. The firemen were "knocked out" like tennins from gas and the department's new lung motor was used for the first time.

ARREST "PRINCESS" AS QUEEN OF AUTO-STEALING GANG

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—Greenwich Village, New York's Bohemia missed its "princess of Wales" today.

The "princess," pretty Jacqueline Rogers, 23, who dresses in a skirt resembling a pair of knickerbockers and a coat and vest a soft shirt and a Prince of Wales hat, was under arrest charged with being the queen of an auto-stealing gang. Police said she had stolen 19 automobiles in the ten months.

It took detective William Dushby many nights disguised as a Greenwich Village shock before he arrested Jacqueline. Police said one of her "subjects" Edward Kingston, "squealed" on her.

The women, in the letter, asserted that the chaplain's stories of getting and then bon parties in solitary cells were false.

Ellenville Fire Causes Loss of About $40,000

Principal Business Section Threatened With Extinction by Fire Which Destroyed Mitchell House Garage and Two Adjoining Buildings—Firemen's Work Saves Other Buildings.

Fire which for a time threatened to destroy a great portion of the village of Ellenville broke out shortly before 10 o'clock Thursday evening. The fire started in the rear of the barber shop of Harry Solomon on Center street which adjoins the Mitchell House Garage. Only the fact that there was no wind at the time and that the village of Ellenville was equipped with modern fire fighting apparatus efficiently manned prevented a disastrous blaze.

The section of the village where the fire broke out is practically entirely of frame construction and had the flames gone beyond control of the firemen the principal business part of the village would have been razed.

When the fire was discovered in the Solomon shop the fire apparatus was summoned and before the fire was under control the shop and the large Mitchell House Garage adjoining had been consumed together with a smaller building which adjoined the barber shop on the opposite side and which was used as a meat market and store by Sam Jacobowitz.

For a time it was thought the fire would communicate to the wing of the Mitchell House which adjoins the garage and also to the Methodist Church on Canal street. These buildings were saved and except for a slight scorching were not damaged.

The store where the fire started was owned by Sam Jacobowitz and was of frame construction. The Mitchell House Garage, one of the largest in the village, was owned by the Ellenville Realty Company, owners of the Mitchell House, and was leased by William Gonder.

The barber shop building was of two story construction while the garage building was the old Mitchell House stables which had been rebuilt for garage purposes and a brick show room erected at the front. The garage contained about 5,000 square feet of floor surface and the main portion of it was of frame construction covered with sheet steel covering.

The garage building backed against the Methodist Church which is on Canal street. One wing of the Mitchell House which is also of frame construction was within twenty-five feet of the garage and only the excellent work on the part of the firemen prevented the flames from communicating to the Mitchell House.

At the rear of the Jacobowitz market were barns and stables and an ice house. These buildings were destroyed. In the barns were two trucks, one of which was saved.

Chief Fisher of the fire department placed the loss at approximately $40,000 but the amount of insurance carried by the owners and tenants could not be learned.

MEMORY OF WILSON REVERED BY LEAGUE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 30.—The memory of Woodrow Wilson was revered today as the League of Nations council met to conclude the first real peace achievement of the league—avoidance of a Greco-Bulgarian war.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and president of the council, reviewed the Greco-Bulgarian situation and stated that peace now reigns where a week ago war threatened.

"I suggest that we dedicate this meeting to Woodrow Wilson the inspirer of the league," said M. Briand. The suggestion of M. Briand was adopted.

The meeting of the council today was purely formal but it had important bearing for a speech made by Baron Ishii indicated that Japan will take a more important part in the workings of the league and may even come into the Locarno pact as a guarantor.

"Although Japan is geographically far removed from the league and although we have not signed the pact of Geneva, the Locarno agreement has proved to us the league's real value to all nations," said Baron Ishii.

Nightly Meetings Of Street Force

Employees of One, Two or Three Wards Meet at City Hall Each Night—Mayor Attends Meetings—An Old Fashioned Political Method.

Kingston, city employees consisting of street sweepers, teamsters and others who are employed on the street force are holding nightly meetings at the city hall in preparation of election. There will not be any extra work for the men on election day so far as their regular city work is concerned unless they get extra pay for it, but they are being summoned to the city hall by squads in order to meet Mayor Block in a social way.

The entire street force does not meet at one time because the force is so big now that the capacity of the city hall would be taxed to hold them all at one time. Instead, they meet by wards. Some nights the employees who live in only one ward meet there. On other nights the employees who live in two or three wards gather there. Some wards have a much smaller number of residents who are now employed on the street force than other wards, so it is possible on some nights to get the men from three wards in the same space that was occupied on another night by the men from only one ward.

The meetings started Monday night and are scheduled to end Saturday night. Nobody is invited to attend the meetings except the street employees, their bosses, ward committeemen and a few other leading Democrats and Mayor Block. The men employed by the city don't talk about the meetings afterward and neither do the Democratic committeemen or the mayor. Near neighbors of the street force are doing quite a lot of talking, however, and there has been still more talk today among citizens generally.

The system of increasing the street force for a few weeks before election went out of date a number of years ago. So did the system of having the extra and regular street force employees gather at the city hall during the week before election. This is the first year they have been invited to hold the get-together meetings by wards. So far as getting the men together is concerned, the new system works out all right because it is easier to check up the list by wards and see whether each man attends.

The system of having the men report at the mayor's night receptions by squads has not been carried out to the extent of having a regular roll call but to many of the street force it seems a hardship to be compelled to leave their homes after a hard day's work and walk to the city hall to attend a reception accompanied by speeches and much political talk on the side.

There were 295 men on the last pay roll of the board of public works.

BELIEF IN WITCHES BY NO MEANS GONE

Still Strong in Parts of Rural England.

In remote corners of England to which the railroad does not run, and where visitors are few, the belief in witchcraft still lingers, in spite of parson and schoolmaster, says a writer in a London paper, who continues:

"Walking down what is called a 'green lane' only a few days ago I passed a little Elizabethan cottage, thatched and weather-boarded, and saw over the front door a hazel wand. Curiosity led me past the corner of the field on which the cottage stands, and there, sure enough, on the back door was another hazel wand."

On the plea of wishing to buy some of the gooseberries that were growing on the bushes, I entered into conversation with the old man who owns the cottage, and asked him frankly who was troubling him. I pointed to the hazel wand over the back door as though I took its efficacy for granted, and he told me that he had had some trouble with the local "Wise Woman."

One of his pigs had sickened as a result, and to save himself from further trouble he had put up the wand, because no wise woman can pass beyond them.

In another village I know well a woman who earned a good bit of money by the sale of herb medicines, sent her daughter to service in Wales, and this daughter came back with one of the old-fashioned hats of the country that women used to wear. By the aid of the hat and a red cloak, her mother thrives, for she has sharp features, and the costume strikes terror, or at least respect, into the hearts of the country folk.

A point to be remembered is that many of the "wise women" have a quite valuable knowledge of the virtues of certain herbs. I know of one who has repeatedly cured the worst symptoms of whooping cough by giving mothers of afflicted children a thin slice of garlic to wear between their foot and their sole. A great Harley street specialist told me only a few years ago that this cure has an undoubted efficacy.

Some of the village folk will not trust their children to the "wise women," but they are not so particular about their animals, and it is a fact that many simple disorders of cows, calves, pigs and dogs are cured by these unauthorized practitioners. A country clergyman of long experience told the writer the other day that the belief in witchcraft is not to be eradicated, and that as long as plausible people advanced claims, these claims would be recognized.

Charlatans

"The snares of the charlatans are no more peculiar to Denver than to any place where helpless humanity offers harvests to the unscrupulous profiteers of affliction," says Alice Robe, New York Journalist, telling of her fight back to health, in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan.

"Discouraged at my inability to work, I listened to the importunities of an acquaintance who wanted to bring a friend, a doctor, to see me. He told me there was nothing the matter with me, just a little bilious attack."

"But oh, when in a moment of weakness I told him I had come to Colorado for tuberculosis, how things changed! Immediately he informed me that I was dying and couldn't last the year out unless I took his magical serum treatment. With the warning from New York in my ears, I refused. I bulwarked myself behind the truthful plea of no money."

"But you're in a dangerous condition, you're dying," he insisted. "I can't let you die. You're a friend of X. If you get well from your almost hopeless state, it will be an advertisement for my method. Don't worry about the money."

"And so I fell, in a moment of terrified illness and discouragement, just as no doubt countless other lonely sufferers have fallen. Then two months later an enormous bill arrived and automatically I stopped the treatment."

Earth Given Great Age

Prof. Henry Russell of Princeton university conjectures that the earth is 8,000,000,000 years old, basing his theory on a comparison of the time it took the Colorado river to carve out the Grand canyon. Also he cites as a gauge the time it takes uranium to decompose. It takes a speck of uranium 300,000 years to decompose, and by studying the lead bars of the world, which are all that is left when uranium has disappeared, he arrives at his conclusion on the earth's age.

COUNTY AUDITORS NOT NEW

Democratic leaders who are attempting to make political capital out of the existence of a board of county auditors in Ulster county either are deliberately seeking to falsify the facts or are showing deep ignorance of their county government.

According to Democratic propagandists, "The surprising thing to the people of the county is that the power to maintain and control county property may be delegated to any committee or board that the majority in the board of supervisors sees fit to delegate it to."

The county auditors are the successors to the supply committee, which was first appointed by the board in 1902 when Everett Fowler was clerk of the board. The supply committee was created on January 15, 1902, by a resolution which provided that four members be appointed which committee was given full and exclusive power to purchase all supplies for the county officers and county officials except the superintendent of the poor, and "also have full charge of all necessary repairs to be made in and about county buildings and property owned by the county," and the committee was given power to issue warrants in payment of bills for such supplies and repairs.

The supply committee was appointed by each succeeding board of supervisors until on April 15, 1914, the board of supervisors created the office of county auditors in order to meet the criticisms contained in a report made by Charles H. Hall, a well known local Democrat connected with the state comptroller's office who had made an examination of accounts of the various county officers. The resolution creating the county auditors was pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 162 of the Laws of 1910, constituting Article Twelve A of Chapter 11 of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York. The county auditors were given the same powers as formerly.

Thereafter each succeeding board of supervisors has appointed county auditors.

ABUSE OF PARDON POWER.

Newspapers in different parts of the country are complaining, with good reason, of the abuse of both the parole system and the pardon prerogative. The Detroit Free Press says paroles are being granted in Lansing, Mich., "on the basis of a muddled, maudlin misapprehension of the reason why criminals are punished." Referring to a man convicted of "a most brutal and cold-blooded crime" (murder), the Louisville Courier-Journal declares that "it would be hard to find in the pardon record of any other governor of Kentucky any case so flagrantly indefensible as the pardon of John Bailey."

Perhaps the most significant instance is the demand for the pardon of a life prisoner in Massachusetts, who has been delighting radio fans far and wide with his excellent violin playing. "Probably when this man was convicted and sentenced," pointedly comments the Boston Post, "there was demand for stern punishment. Now that the details of the murder are forgotten his violin playing seems of more moment than his crime. We would not oppose the release of a man who had earned a pardon and was entitled to a fresh start in life, but his case should be predicated on his conduct rather than on his talent that has awakened the interest of the public."

Supervisor Albert Vogel of the Seventh ward has served that ward for the past two years in the board of supervisors and his record has been such that he was unanimously nominated by the Republicans of the Seventh ward as a candidate to succeed himself at the fall election. Thoroughly familiar with the work of the county legislative body he should be returned to office by an even larger majority than that given him two years ago.

Alfredman Judson, who has represented the Sixth ward in the common council for the past two years has always been a member of vancing the best interests of the ward. That his work is appreciated is shown by the fact that he has again been selected by the voters of the ward to represent it in the common council.

Supervisor Edgar T. Shults has been named by the Republicans of the Eleventh ward as a candidate to succeed himself in the county legislative body. His record as supervisor is such that he should be returned to office by an even larger majority than that given him two years ago.

That Body of Yours

GETTING SOME SUN.

You must sometimes wonder, if you are a thinking person, just why, as a race of intelligent human beings, we have to be hit on the head with a club, before we are willing to obey the simplest laws that our body's health demands.

Nearly every ailment that now attacks us is due to something that a little care and thought could have prevented.

And so our overweight and underweight folks are learning how and what to eat.

Folk who work with their heads are now seeing the wisdom of exercising their bodies, as the Creator meant them to be exercised. Our tuberculous cases are getting the fresh air that is making them whole again.

And now to put the finishing touch on things, our research friends are advocating that as we can't, or will not, get the real sunshine on our bodies, they will have to provide artificial sunlight for us. By the use of huge lamps without shades, veritable sunlight is produced in a special room in some of the large hospitals.

The patients wear eye shades, and a cloth about the loins, and the beneficial rays of the artificial sun are given a real chance to do their work of restoring weakened bodies.

The light produces a "tan" the same as that of the sun, and when the patient has had his skin well tanned, he is allowed to take as much as four hours of treatment at one time.

In that terribly disgusting ailment, tuberculosis of the skin, the curative effect of this "sunlight" treatment has been remarkable. Children underweight, children with soft bones, men and women with old slow healing conditions, are all brought back to normal with a few months treatment.

If Flinsen, the discoverer of these rays had lived just another twenty years, he would have seen the wonderful fulfillment of his dreams, as to the efficacy of his discovery in relieving all manner of ills in the human body.

And for those of us who are well, the lesson is obvious, that we spend more time in the natural sunshine. Our bodies need it. The Creator intended them to have it.

Midget and the Bible
My mother had a beautiful cat named Midget. Midget was not only fastidious when it came to eating, but would sleep nowhere but on the family Bible. My mother left the Bible on the kitchen table one night, and Midget, leaving her place in the parlor, where the Bible was kept, hunted around until she found it, and there she was found in the morning. Just to try out the old "tabby," my mother carried the Bible upstairs to her sleeping room, and the next morning, lo and behold! there lay Midget. A dictionary the same size was placed in the Bible's usual place and the Bible moved to a small clothespress. Next morning Midget was found on the Bible as usual and there she slept until one morning she was found dead.—O. B. Montgomery, in Our Dumb Animals.

Disastrous Flood
The Dayton (Ohio) flood of 1913 was, in the main, caused by a record-breaking rainfall, which was due to the meeting of three opposing air currents, one from the west, another a cold stream from the northeast, and a third a warm current from the south. The flood was accentuated by the conditions of the rivers flowing through the city and also by the bursting of reservoirs in central and western Ohio. Four hundred and fifteen lives were lost, and the property losses amounted to $180,000,000.

Caring for Books
Books kept in glass-fronted bookcases are subject to attacks from bookworms, moths, etc., in greater degree than if on open shelves. To preserve your books from these pests sprinkle the shelves occasionally, say once every six months, with half an ounce of camphor, half an ounce of powdered bitter apple (well mixed together). Do not keep books in a very warm room. Gas light affects them very much. Russia leather binders in particular.

"Messers" and "Moppers"
The world is divided into the people who make the messes and the people who mop them up. Ninety per cent make the messes and 10 per cent are mopped out with mops. I was reading a novel called "Kiddie" the other day. I'm told it's the best picture of modern life that has ever been shown. And from cover to cover there is a simple mention of such things as justice, kindness, compassion, etc., as if these things were the only things that counted. It's really just the way everything is in life. The messes are made and the moppers are called.—From "Kiddie," by J. M. Barrie.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

TRYON FLEES, BUT NOT FAR.

One hundred and fifty years ago today, William Tryon, royal governor of New York, was establishing himself in new and hastily improvised quarters on a British warship in New York harbor. On October 6, 1775, the Continental Congress had advised his arrest because of his constant activities in opposition to the patriot cause. But not until three weeks later did he regard his arrest as imminent enough to justify his flight.

Then he followed the precedent which had been established by five other royal governors and took to his warship, but did not discontinue his activities. It was to be some time before his activities were to come to an end. Fortunately, indeed, would it have been for the patriots if they had acted immediately upon the advice of the Congress and put Tryon away, as they later put William Franklin, governor of New Jersey, in a prison camp in Connecticut. Tryon's last endeavor after establishing his floating headquarters was to advise the citizens of New York to send a petition to King George independently of the other colonies. This their provincial congress indignantly refused to do because it would be "inconsistent with the glorious plan of American union." To give added point to their refusal, they announced their approval of the Continental Congress and its proceedings.

Conditions in New York were none too favorable to the patriot cause in the fall of 1775 and they became steadily less favorable throughout 1776. Tryon had there a favorable field for his scheming and conspiring. One phase of the situation there in October 1775, was vividly set forth in a letter to Samuel and John Adams, members of the Continental Congress, by a patriot who, signing his letters "The Intelligencer," was keeping the Congress informed of the conditions in New York. In one of his letters, the original copy of which has been examined for the purpose of this writing, "The Intelligencer" reported ten days before the flight of Tryon:

"Our militia is exceedingly neglected by the Congress who have not made out, or at least have not given the Ward officers their commissions, for which reason they are not able to oblige their companies to appear. This has also a bad effect on the battalions, who do not turn out, because the others don't. These circumstances have a very bad effect, as they encourage the Tories, who exult at it, and discourage the timid Whigs."

Early English Boxer

James Figg was the first recognized boxing champion of England. No date of Figg's birth is obtainable, but it is supposed to have been about 1665. Figg weighed about 150 and stood close to six feet. He was born at Thame, in Oxfordshire, England. He died December 8, 1734. Previous to 1719 Figg was known as a first-class swordsman, cudgeler and boxer. He was considered more adept as a back swordsman than a pugilist, but later he took more to boxing, defeating every man he met in stand-up fights.

ALICE ALLIGATOR TALKS

"My dear Agnes Alligator," said Alice Alligator, "men and women and boys and girls flatter themselves, they do."

"Do they, indeed?" asked Agnes Alligator, as she swam about the big tank.

"Yes, they do, indeed," said Alice. "and I know, for I heard them talk the other day when they came to the tank."

"They knew that we hadn't nice dispositions, all right."

"That was correct."

"They knew that the only reason we put up with the keeper was because he gave us food."

"They knew that we didn't care for him in the least and that we would never allow ourselves to become pets—no, not in a thousand years."

"But they thought that we always wanted to grab one of them whenever we could, whether we were free or not."

"Did they not know we were frightened of them?" asked Agnes Alligator.

"No," said Alice, "and so I say they flattered themselves."

"They seemed to think that we wanted to eat them whenever we could, and you and I and all alligators know that we will run for the water if we're on the land in our free state when we see grown-ups or children."

"They didn't know that we were wild and angry with them only when they bothered us and that then we put up a terrible fight with our strong jaws and tails."

"We can knock them down with our tails if they get near us, and we can't do so touch with our fat necks."

"Our necks aren't so easy to turn around as one might think."

"The way you talk about necks," said Agnes, "one would think that necks were on wheels and some turned more easily than others."

"You know what I mean," grinned Alice.

"But the very idea of people thinking we would always go for them when we like fish and birds and little animals and insects for our food."

"If they fed us something we might bite off an arm in our hurry to get at the food."

"But they shouldn't flatter themselves that we want to eat them."

"In fact we don't flatter people by wanting them every time we see them."

"They would comfort themselves by a little nap."

and they should not be so conceited about nothing at all."

"But one thing makes me particularly angry about people—and that is that some of them hunt for us down South for no reason at all except to be mean, and they think they're having fun getting dumb creatures to be their prey."

"That is the meanest of all—to attack us for no other reason than just to attack us—and to call it fun."

"That seems the worst thing about it—to call it fun. That seems terrible."

"Oh, that makes me so angry too," said Agnes. "I'm really quite glad I'm in the zoo."

"Of course we're cranky and we don't care about anyone and we're not friendly and we are greedy, and many of our ways are hard-hearted, if one can speak of alligator ways in that fashion."

"But that is no reason for making sport of us. People don't show us they're so fine when they do such things."

"They decided then that they would comfort themselves by a little nap, while Charlie Crocodile from his tank nearby was saying:

"Yes, as I've said before I'm a contented crocodile, but I would not be contented as a cow is contented."

"A cow is contented chewing her cud all day, but I am contented because I can be fierce and angry and powerful whenever there is any need of it."

So contented Charlie Crocodile and his brother and family swam around happily with their flat tails helping them along, while the Alligators slept and had a peaceful rest.

MEALS FOR THE DAY

A salad which is always seasonable is prepared as follows:

Peach and Grapefruit Salad.—On heart-leaves of lettuce arrange halves of canned peaches, fill the centers with finely minced tender celery and arrange around them sections of grapefruit. Sprinkle with chopped pecans and serve with the following dressing: Beat one cupful of cream until firm, add salt, paprika, and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Place a spoonful of this dressing on the peach, garnish with a cherry.

Eggs and Mushrooms.—When the fresh are not obtainable, the dried ones, if well-soaked, may be used. Take four eggs and four rounds of toast. Make a white sauce of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and one-half cupful of milk. Cook until smooth and thick, season with salt and pepper and add a teaspoonful of caramel. Toast the rounds of bread, cover each with the sauce, to which the chopped mushrooms have been added, then drop an egg on each and place in a hot oven long enough to set the egg. Garnish with water cress.

Broiled Sirloin Steak With Vegetables.—Lay a steak in a well-greased baking pan, cover with a thin layer of sliced onion, over this a layer of chopped celery, using two or three onions and two cupfuls of celery for a two-pound steak; add one or two finely-sliced green peppers, and over all slice three good-sized ripe tomatoes. Place under the broiler and cook, stirring the vegetables occasionally. This is a dish which will be often repeated after being once served. The seasoning is done before the meat is put into the broiling oven. This dish may be used for a flat cake of hamburger or round steak, and roasted in the oven. Follow directions as for broiling. When the vegetables are cooked, serve at once.

Celery cut into short lengths and stuffed with cheese is a good relish to serve with any menu.

Fourth Binnewater. Oct. 29.—The last dance of the season was held at the M. A. Club Hall on Saturday night. There was quite a large crowd present in spite of the rain.

L. Lasher has installed a new radio in his home. The neighbors are their daily callers now to listen to the news.

The men digging the cellar for E. Booth's new bungalow find plenty of rock. Mr. Freer is doing the blasting.

J. Clark is home for a short time helping his father do some painting and digging for a cistern.

Oral Deltz and sister, Mary, attended the dance at Adirgerville on Saturday night last.

Mr. and Mrs. George Joy and Silas Stokes of Kingston were callers in this place on Sunday.

T. Menchen of this place has sold his two beautiful cottages to city people. All hope the new owners will keep the place as nicely as did Mr. and Mrs. Menchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jordan, who have been away for a month or six weeks are expecting to return to their home soon. All will be glad to welcome them back again.

Fred Pine who is helping dig the cellar of E. Booth has had the misfortune to mash one of his big toes on Tuesday.

Mr. F. Deltz called on her mother and Mr. Clark on Tuesday.

Robert Freer and family of Stone Ridge called on his father and mother also at Mrs. G. Walton's on Sunday afternoon.

Mary Deltz was a Kingston visitor on Tuesday.

Morgan Stokes, who is visiting his father and sister in this place called on Mrs. George Walton on Wednesday.

SEND CAPT. KRAFT to the ASSEMBLY

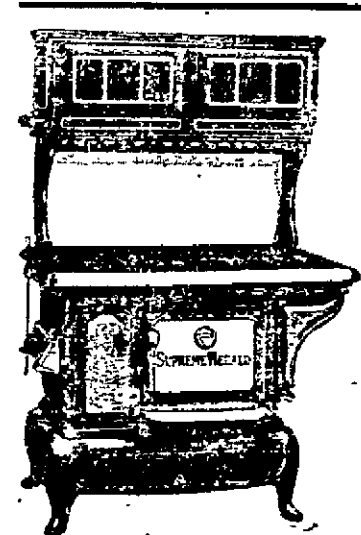

CAPT. WM. R. KRAFT.

HE WILL SERVE PEOPLE FAITHFULLY

Captain William R. Kraft, business man of Kingston, veteran of the World War, has been placed in nomination for the Member of Assembly. We, his friends and admirers, representing both political parties, urge upon the people of the county his fitness for the office and urge that he be supported at the polls on November 3. He is a young man, clean and aggressive, and well informed on the matters that are of concern to the people of this county and of the state. He is educated and trained. He was one of the first of the Ulster County Boys to get into the Service when Our Country was at war, one of the first to be sent "Over There", and on the Other Side he was trusted with important duties, and Made Good. He was in France more than 14 months. HE SERVED US IN WAR. WE WANT HIM TO SERVE US IN PEACE.

And, in the Assembly, we know he will prove as good a representative as he was a soldier, in the A. E. F. Having confidence in him, we ask all voters to seriously consider his candidacy and to vote to send him to the Assembly, on Election Day.

With the high price of coal and even at that its scarcity, the only logical thing to do is to purchase a heater which will be economical to maintain in fuel.

English Circuit Brings in U. S. A.

our-Tube Set That Gives Splendid Results Any Good Radio Night.

Here is a hook-up, writes a Pennsylvania correspondent in Radio Digest, that my friend in England receives America on during any good radio night. He advises that he has tried all the hook-ups and he finds this the best. I hooked my set like it last February and have no trouble getting coast-to-coast reception.

honeycombs in an adjustable coil holder, although other forms and means of coupling can be used. You do not need a potentiometer in this circuit. The filament rheostats give you the same results and you will probably find that you get much louder signals by cutting down the current on the first tube.
For DX work, the detector tube current should be varied for best results. To switch out the last tube (second audio) turn the switch to the right and cut off the rheostat on that tube. When you've become accustomed to handling this circuit I think you will prefer it to anything you've tried. I know we do.

Ohio Fan Explains His Two-Variometer Hook-Up

I am inclosing my favorite single-tube set with which I have obtained exceptional results, writes an Ohio fan in Radio Digest. It is easy to operate, there being only one tuning control. Using one tube with an aerial 30 feet long, including lead-in, and a WD-12 tube, I get Calgary, Alberta, Los Angeles, Havana, Hollywood and Portland, Ore. In one week 70 stations were logged.

Two variometers are wound on the same 4-inch cardboard tube. The rotors have a diameter of 3 inches. The stator of the aerial variometer consists of 32 turns of No. 24 dec. copper wire. This is then continued 5 turns on each side of the stator of the plate variometer. The plate variometer has a stator of 82 turns of No. 24 dec. wire and a rotor of 40 turns of the same wire on 3-inch tube. The tuning rotor is 32 turns No. 24 dec. wire on the other 3-inch tube.

The switch in the aerial circuit is closed for long-wave lengths and opened for short-wave lengths. The .002 mfd. phone condenser is connected across the phones and "B" battery, which is 22½ volts. Be sure to connect the tuning rotor to the aerial and the rotor of the plate variometer to the phones.

When Tube Is Short-Circuited
Short-circuited tube elements will cause the tube to light very brilliantly when first turned on. Remove such a tube at once and replace it with a good one, as it might cause others to burn out in set.

Snyder Will Help Hurley

Able and Conscientious Life Resident Selected by Republican Party for Representative in County Legislature.

In nominating Frank H. Snyder for supervisor of the town of Hurley, the Republican party in that town selected a man who is well acquainted with every section and practically every acre of property and every voter.

He is not a stranger to any section of the town. For a number of years he was engaged in business in West Hurley, until compelled to seek a home elsewhere by reason of the construction of the Ashokan reservoir. Then he removed to Old Hurley where he has since resided and conducted business.

As collector of taxes of the town, Mr. Snyder fully sustained the confidence which had been shown to him by the voters and he performed his duties most acceptably.

The town of Hurley has been growing more rapidly in the past few years than many other sections of the state. New homes are being erected and development will continue at a more rapid rate during the next few years. Mr. Snyder knows what the town wants and will work with his fellow Republicans in the board of supervisors to advance its interests. The voter who casts his vote for Mr. Snyder on election day will be voting to aid the town and in this way bring prosperity to his or her own community.

FT. LEAVENWORTH PRISON CONTAINS SHOE FACTORY

Will Begin Next January to Make Footwear for Various Government Institutions.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan.—A million-dollar factory within the prison walls of the Fort Leavenworth federal penitentiary will begin making shoes for the men of the army and navy and federal institutions next January. Warden J. Goldthwaite will be its superintendent.

One of the serious problems with which Warden W. J. Middle has had to contend is that of finding employment for his prisoners. The shoe factory will put to work 700 convicts whose time now is idle.

The men will be taught a trade; a small remuneration will go partly toward the support of their families and partly into a fund at interest, to be paid them on their release. The government will take a profit from production.

The plant is expected to turn out from 2,500 to 3,000 pairs of shoes daily when operating at its capacity, but this will not be possible until skilled labor has been developed among the prison laborers. When the peak of quality and quantity has been attained, the penitentiary will begin manufacturing footwear for the army and navy, and later a work shoe in addition, for other institutions maintained by the government.

The factory was built by man power at a great saving in cost. Wherever some expensive bit of machinery could be replaced by manual labor, it was done.

When it was necessary to hoist tons of brick and steel, cement and crushed stone to the workers on the skeleton fourth story, a series of runways was rigged up from lumber sawed at the prison mill, and up these runways the convicts trundled their wheelbarrows of construction material. Six hundred yards of the government helped build the plant.

The factory will be fireproof throughout, with large windows and white enamel walls. The floor surface will be impervious to grease and shoe blacking. Modern sanitary and safety devices and the latest shoe-building equipment will be used.

Superintendent Goldthwaite came to Fort Leavenworth from Haverhill, Mass., where he had completed a quarter of a century with a shoe manufactory. He will be assisted by five civilian foremen.

Gob Loses 173 Pounds; "Diet Did It," He Says

Philadelphia—After a year and a half passed in watching himself disappear in large chunks, Chief Yeoman Clarence H. Hemery, U. S. N., at the League Island navy yard, has at last had something authentic in effective dieting to give a waiting world.

"It was not a miracle," began Clarence. "It was merely application. I determined to become thin and I did it."

It was just 18 months ago—and Clarence has photographs which prove it—that the chief yeoman battled the scales at 375 pounds, dinner table side. Today he weighs just 202 pounds, a decrease of exactly 173 pounds.

"I dieted," said Clarence, running his finger around the inside of his bow roomy collar.

"I made up this list and day after day despite the temptations of cream-embellished coffee and juicy steaks I stuck to it. For one year and a half I have eaten nothing else. This is my regular daily allowance: Thirty ounces of vegetables, six ounces of lean meat, six ounces of lean fish, one whole egg, the whites of four eggs, four apples, two oranges, wheat bread and skimmed milk."

Louisiana Plans Huge Memorial to Longfellow

New Orleans.—The Longfellow-Evangeline memorial when erected will be made up of three figures cut into a monument that will stand on the banks of the Bayou Teche, near St. Martinville.

The monument will arise in a fifty-acre park, almost on the spot where the forlorn Arcadian girl kept her unfulfilled tryst with the banished Gabriel.

For years, tourists have visited the beautiful Evangeline country of Louisiana and have marveled at the beauty of the moss-hung oaks beneath which Evangeline awaited her lover. In the center of the park will be a circular pool surrounded by figures symbolic of the poem, Youth, Gladness, Love and Despair, over which will stand the monument consisting of a figure of Longfellow and his two characters, Evangeline and Gabriel.

Funds for the project are being furnished by subscriptions from school children of the South and Longfellow-Evangeline associations everywhere.

"Arid" Farms Produce $56,000,000 in Wealth

Dodge City, Kan.—A waste of sand hills and rain-washed gulleys, covered with tumble weeds, scrub brush and buffalo grass—such is the picture often drawn of western Kansas, that section of the Sunflower state that lies west of the 100th meridian. However, last year the 24 counties comprising this domain produced field crops and live stock products worth more than $56,000,000, or $350 per capita. The land yielded 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, worth nearly $23,000,000.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

HOW ESKIMOS LIVE IN ICY GREENLAND

MacMillan Expedition Forwards Interesting Facts About the Natives.

Washington, D. C.—How the Eskimos live in icy Greenland, one of the most forbidding of all inhabited areas, is related in the following bulletin from the National Geographic society, based on a radio dispatch from the MacMillan Arctic expedition:

"Aside from its mines of coal and cryolite, Greenland is as free of industry and manufacture as it is of agriculture, husbandry or forestry. The rock lace-work border between ice cap and sea offers no opportunity for farming or herding and a two-linch tree produces little lumber. But there are thousands of suitable harbors to which a kayak or a small wooden boat can retreat from the storm.

"The Eskimo has been repulsed by a barren land which, however, welcomes him cordially when fish are piled on his dock or walrus or seal drag at his towline. It is natural therefore that the only industrial plant we saw in Greenland should be related to fishing.

"Across a narrow bight from the main town of Holstenborg is a small but modern factory for canning halibut. There girls, in bright bead collars, work for 40 cents a day, solder cans, weigh the firm white flesh or scrub sections of the big fish in chilly tubs of sea water.

"In the North, as elsewhere, civilization has been working its way with primitive peoples. What has meant wealth to Gloucester, has meant increasing want to the kayaker, and the Danes have sought to provide employment for those Greenlanders who, while developing tastes for imported articles, are farming their once productive half acres less profitably than before. The halibut cannery at Holstenborg is an attempt to enable a settlement to live through co-operation at a time when individual skill and initiative are on the wane. Sons of kayakers who would brave any storm, get seasick on the big halibut schooner and it is hard to find efficient men at any price commensurate with possible return.

Trapping White Whales.
"Greenland halibut is perfection in fish food and a sale is gradually being developed for canned halibut produced in a factory which answers a demand, not for food or profit, but for employment by those who would otherwise lack it. Sukkertoppen has become prosperous by running nets between islands and trapping white whales.

"Holstenborg depends on a big flat fish to keep bright boots on its women and fat cheeks on its babies.

"The halibut is the king of those fish whose wandering eyes and shifting body planes make them seem deformed when they are actually highly developed for the life they lead. Although the life history of the halibut is still unknown, a study of these flat fish leads one to think that during growth one eye migrates across the head and that the body axis shifts.

"Not only because of his shift eye and turnable spine is the halibut interesting, but he is also able to change the color of his skin to match that of the bottom near which he lies. In some mysterious way this ability to play chameleon is connected with eyesight and a severing of the optic nerve robs the halibut of its protean ability to camouflage himself against the home he has chosen. Only by keeping his eyes open can the halibut work out a color scheme of his own. So commercial fishermen prevent the fish from becoming discolored by using the fish's own body as a blinder and laying him eyes down.

"When a schooner arrives in port with many of its cargo still alive, the bins are full of fish, all stacked with the white side up. As the huge fish are lifted to the wharf, the first operation is to cut off the head, which forms a considerable portion of the body, and tons of these are thrown into the harbor or given to the poor of the town. Just before a schooner sees pairs of trousers and a few home baskets of fish heads which are spilt and hung from poles to keep them from the dogs and allow them to dry. These drying heads give flavor to the town and make its scent as vivid as are the local colors in which bright beads have so large a part.

Rescue Ship Now a Pier.

"Out in the harbor is the towering bulk of the Old Peru, a gallant ship which was once sent to the relief of Nansen but is now used as a floating pier.

"Like the primitive peoples of the North, this venerable vessel has a flat nose and high cheek bones so that it seems as though it could float broadside as easily as on a head. An old sailor down in Maine described such a vessel by saying that if a bucket fell overboard under her bowsprit, she would bump it ahead of her for a week before she would get past it. This old vessel marks one stage in the Royal Danish Trading company. The ship the cause of the Holstenborg cannery, fitted to the top with the firm flesh of the northern halibut, mark another stage in modern man's effort to adapt himself to changing surroundings, as the king of flatfish does in shifting eye and body axis and changing the color of his skin."

Traffic on the Ellenville and Kingston state road was tied up for a short time Sunday evening about 10 o'clock owing to a large hickory tree being blown down across the road near Kyserville. Miss Georgia Baird returned home from Lake Mohonk this week.

The M. E. Sunday school will hold a Halloween party on Friday evening in the church hall. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Games will be played in the evening.

Through these dark, frosty evenings of October, Accord talent is gathering its way to the village hall, where rehearsals are being held for the Farm and Home Bureau competitive play, "Early Ohio's and Rhode Island Reds," under the very able coaching of H. M. Eyles. That alone speaks for the success of the play, and with Accord dramatic talent, nothing, apparently, can prevent this community from winning the trophy and presenting the play at the annual banquet which will be held in Kingston some time early in December. The play will first be given with an evening of fun and frolic, in the local hall November 13. Dancing and an evening of fun will follow. Refreshments will be served by the women of the Home Bureau.

The fourth assistant postmaster general has issued a new statement in regard to the improvement and repair of bad stretches of roads on rural mail routes and the prospects of service being discontinued on some sections where results cannot be obtained. This is of special interest to rural patrons and commissioners of highways, both present and future. A copy of the statement can be found in the post office.

The Halloween party of the Reformed Sunday school will be held, rain or shine, in the church basement on Saturday, October 31. Supper will be served from 5:30 on. There will be something to please both young and old. In the way of games, fun and frolic. Everyone is welcome and dress in costume and mask if they wish. A prize will be given for the most appropriately dressed couple and also for the best individual costume.

STUCK WITH STUCCO!

For many weeks the people of Kingston watched the work of chipping and chiseling the Rosendale Cement from the County Building, Fair and Main streets, Kingston. They wondered why this hard, flint like cement was being removed.

Then they saw Stucco being put on. And again they wondered and wondered and finally concluded that they were being Stuck With Stucco.

Then they commenced to wonder who was responsible for the job, and why it was being done, what it was going to cost, who was doing the work and why, and whether or not all contractors of city or county had had an opportunity to bid on the work.

No information was forthcoming, until a meeting of the Board of Supervisors was held on Tuesday evening, October 27. Questioning by Democratic supervisors then brought County Attorney John W. Eckert to his feet, explaining:

First—That the work had been ordered by the County Board of Auditors.

Second—That no resolution setting forth the necessity for such work had been passed by the Board of Supervisors.

Third—That the work had been given to a builder, not under a contract, but by Days' Work, let the days be as numerous as might be.

Fourth—That this Board of Auditors were in supreme control of County Buildings and County Property, that they need answer to no one until the annual meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

Fifth—That this Board of Auditors need not be composed of members of the Board of Supervisors.

Sixth—That the cost would be something over $4,750.

The Board of Auditors in this instance is composed of three men, Silas S. Auchmoedy, Supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, where was made the cement that was chiseled off the building; William E. Avery, Supervisor of the Town of Hardenbergh, and Charles Snyder, Supervisor of the Twelfth Ward, Kingston. All three are Republicans.

The people now have an illuminating illustration of the manner in which the Republican Machine, controlling the Board of Supervisors of the County, works. And this, on the authority of County Attorney John W. Eckert and Secretary of the Republican County Committee, concededly an authority.

How do the people of city and county like it?

Do not the real citizens who are not controlled by the Republican Machine, feel there should be a change in the methods that are in vogue?

The way to bring about a change is to vote for Democratic candidates for Supervisor. A vote for a Republican candidate as a vote for the continuance of the methods that obtain today, a vote of approval of the Domination of all offices and all departments of the county by this machine, even the domination of the affairs of the towns of the county.

Chic Apparel for Matron and Maid

Frills and Furbelows Are Different for Mother and Daughter.

The sophistication of fall clothes means that henceforth there is to be a difference of apparel for the matron and the maid. The woman of forty has affected the simple frock of sixteen, provided she was slender enough to get into it. Mother and daughter shopped together, swapped outfits and wore the same hats. That day is passing, asserts a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star.

The frills and furbelows of youth differ from the studied flourishes that grace middle age. The matron will be known again by the gown she wears. The transition will be gradual, to give to youth what is youth's is not the disposition of fashion followers. That is one reason for the continued popularity of the jumper frock.

But the situation does bring youth its own; designers have provided especially for the school and college girl.

Almost every girl has a natural liking for pretty clothes and she often wears them with an air that forecasts future success when she takes her place in the grown-up world. It is gratifying to note how many of our young girls have extremely good taste and are familiar with points of style.

Every school wardrobe should include a suit or an ensemble of dress and coat that is sufficiently tailored to be classed as such. Tweeds and homespuns are always good, and this season offers more attractive ones than ever. One pretty model is made of a heather-mixture in the "bird" colorings which have replaced the "jewel" tones of last season. The coat is seven-eighths length, which is a new note in suits for girls and is extremely smart. This suit is a splendid choice.

Tunic in Pencil Blue Satin, With Merry Clown Decorations.

because the coat can be worn over other dresses and still look correct. It, therefore, has a twofold value and eliminates one extra garment. Another costume suit that emphasizes smartness and utility is of tweed and plain coating fabric. The little dress has a collar and pockets of the popular punched leather. The coat is of plain coating material, lined with tweed like the dress, and it has a big fur collar. This gives an extremely smart costume suit and also a good separate dress and topcoat as well.

Often the blouse chosen to wear with a tailored suit is extremely long. No line in a blouse is more becoming to girlish slimness than one which reaches half way to the knee, and is called fingertip length. Of course, this blouse cannot be worn under a short jacket, but it beautifully completes the suits just mentioned, which have the seven-eighths length coats.

The regulation two-piece dress of jumper type with circular or plaited skirt is so popular that it is perhaps the best model that we have this season. Certainly every school wardrobe can contain at least two of this type, one in cloth and one in velveteen and Jersey.

Followers of Fashion

Match Hat and Frock

One of the rules which followers of fashion must adhere to strictly this season is the matching of the hat to the frock or coat. This apparently is the crux of the fashion situation and must defeat the hearts of millions. Every costume requires its hat not only in harmony as to color but in line and fabric suited to the occasion.

More and more are women realizing that in harmony they have found the key of chic and that the care expended in choosing accessories to complete the picture brings fashion results that are more than worth while.

First Spanish University

The first university in Spain was founded at Palencia, in Old Castile, about the year 1208. It did not remain long there, for it was removed 30 years later to Salamanca, where it still exists.

THAT SHORT SKIRTS AND LONG SLEEVES ARE INSEPARABLE COMPANIONS.

Not so long ago, a cloth gown was a rarity. It was considered utilitarian, but hardly smart—but times change and with them our angle on what is good, bad, and indifferent.

As the big ships unload their passengers dressed for their homecoming in their latest French clothes, more and more women are discovered wearing smart diagonal and other novelty woollens—to say nothing of kashas and bathriggans. Many of these are lightened with silk or satin but some are frankly all-cloth dresses, usually in two pieces.

Berthe designed the model sketched, with its pointed waistcoat, and arranged that as well as the short coat, which might seem to be omitted—there should be a long one—matching of course. There are still many masculine details in women's clothes, this being especially true of the new woolen dresses which demand, of course, expert tailoring, and run to notched collars, worked buttonholes and such things. The smartest woollens are those which have an all-over pattern sometimes in a chevron effect.

The reappearance of the notched velvet collar might be expected at the same time, for velvet is never omitted these days where it can possibly be used. A smart jumper costume encountered on Park avenue, recently, consisted of a black velvet circular skirt and a Scotch plaid jumper, belted with leather and having turnover velvet collar.

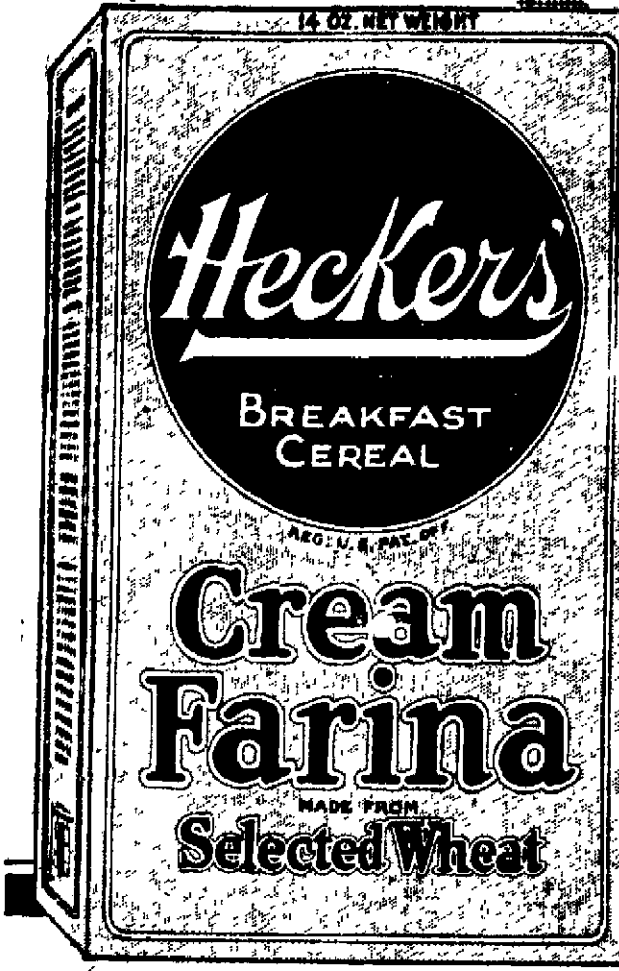

It is rather clever on the part of the haute couture to reinstate woollen dresses by the interesting route of mannish fabrics—instead of plain old time serges.

- 3 Cupfuls Flour
- 6 Teaspoonfuls Baking Powder
- 3/4 Teaspoonful Salt
- 1/2 Tablespoonful Sugar
- 3 Tablespoonfuls Snowdrift
- Equal Parts Milk and Water (about a Cupful)

Sift together the dry ingredients, then rub in the Snowdrift with the fingertips or the back of the mixing-spoon, until the mixture looks flaky. Pour in equal parts of milk and water to moisten—approximately cupful—then quickly turn the mixture onto a slightly floured board and pat or roll it to one-half inch in thickness. Shape into rounds with the biscuit cutter, tucking under the edges as you work, so there will be no remnants. Place, scarcely touching, on a baking-pan oiled with Snowdrift, and bake in a quick oven, 375 degrees F., about fifteen minutes. Thin biscuits will bake in ten minutes.

EDGAR T. SHULTIS.

Voters of the Eleventh Ward know the value of having an experienced man in any position. This is particularly true where they are concerned personally, which is the case in their selection of a representative in the county legislature.

Edgar T. Shultis, candidate of the Republican party for supervisor in that ward, is especially qualified to serve the voters again as their representative. His knowledge of county affairs and government has come through experience. Neither knowledge nor experience are gained in a day. Supervisor Shultis has spent many days in serving the people and he is in better position than ever before to render further valuable service for the people of his ward, of the city and the county.

Supervisor Shultis is not afraid of the hard work either in business or for the people who have elected him to office in the past, and he has every reason to know that they will depend on him and rely on his judgment and action. To make more emphatic their approval of public officials of that kind, they will make a majority a big one on election day.

SUPERVISOR BILYOU, ILL, ASKS VOTERS TO REMEMBER HIM

84 Ponckhockie Street,
Kingston, N. Y.
October 30, 1935

To the Voters of the Fifth Ward, City of Kingston.

It is with regret that I am compelled to announce that by reason of a serious illness I am unable to campaign, as I had intended to do. I am, however, that my friends will support me on Election Day, even though I am confined to the house by illness.

I appreciate the handsome vote which has been given me in this ward and I trust that the electors will again favor me by giving me for a second term as supervisor.

Very Truly Yours,
WILLIAM A. BILYOU.

SCHOOLWOMEN'S CLUB

Glider Releases Bombs

In order to insure safety for airplane planting or dropping bombs, a glider device has been perfected and tried out with some success. This glider device releases bombs from the glider plane and permits the pilot of the glider to release his cargo at a distance safe from the enemy aircraft gun, sending the glider into the direction of the enemy object.

Just Like Home

Dr. Lee De Forest of radio fame told a story at the Harvard club in New York.

"A man," he said, "was hailed by a magistrate and given a month for reckless driving."

"Judge," he said, as they led him away, "can I have my radio set put up in my cell?"

JEANETTE

THOUGH originating in France, from where most of our stately little feminine names come, Jeanette has been formally naturalized and its birthplace is generally forgotten. It means "grace of the Lord" and has its earliest origin in the old Hebrew Joanna, a name bestowed upon the holy woman of the Gospel.

When Joan came into fashion in England and named the daughter of Edward II and other members of royalty, France formed Jeanette in accordance with their inimitable habit of making a diminutive. Jean had already been popular there and Jeanette and Jeanne, which seem to have been used almost interchangeably, became instantly in vogue.

Jeanne or Jeanette of Flanders, as she was called, was the famous heroine of the Benbowe, while Jeanette La Pucelle of Orleans ranks with the great of France. Jeanne de Valois, daughter of Louis XI and discarded wife of Louis XII, was another famous woman bearing the name. The French went one step further and gave a Jeanette but it was never imported from Gaelic soil.

The diamond is Jeanette's talismanic stone. It is believed to bring her wealth and power and love. If she wears it on her left arm Wednesday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

Vocalists Urged To Join Club

Mendelssohn Club Honored by Invitation to Sing in New York. Plans to Enlarge Club and Invites Applications for Membership.

Several articles have recently appeared in The Freeman calling attention to the fact that the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston has resumed activities for the coming season under a much broader and more ambitious program than has ever before been attempted.

Mendelssohn Club is a charter member of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, an organization of male chorus societies of national scope which was formed in New York city nearly two years ago and which has grown phenomenally during its short life. Since its organization, this association has given each year a concert of the massed male choruses of the Metropolitan district, the last one being given in the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York, when a chorus of eight hundred and seventy voices sang to a packed and enthusiastic audience while literally thousands were turned away at the box office. Definite plans have already been made for the next of these concerts which will be held on February 6, 1926, at the 71st Regiment Armory in New York city, this being the largest auditorium obtainable, having seating capacity for an audience of ten thousand and accommodations for a chorus of over twelve hundred.

The Mendelssohn Club has been highly honored in receiving and accepting an invitation to sing in this great massed concert, particularly as there has been but one other club outside the immediate vicinity of New York that has ever before been included, this being the Choral Club of Hartford Conn., a large and long established club of very high musical standing.

This honor carries with it an unquestionable obligation — Mendelssohn Club must not only thoroughly prepare the selections to be used in the big New York concert, but the musical standards of the club must be maintained while the size of the club is, if possible, increased. Mendelssohn Club has never been in more prosperous and flourishing condition than at present with forty-three active members who are hard at work with their weekly rehearsals and a list of nearly fifty interested associate members but the club has room for more desirable voices and in a place as large as Kingston, there must be many good voices that have never been associated with the club. It is to these unknown singers that this article is addressed.

There seems to be a current belief that Mendelssohn Club is an exclusive organization, both musically and socially, and that membership in the club can be obtained only as the result of direct invitation from a member. While it is of course, true that certain standards of musical ability and good fellowship have to be and are maintained, any man in Kingston or vicinity who has a little something of a voice, a little knowledge of music and who has a great liking for singing and the companionship of other men who have an equal love of song is urged to make application in writing to the chairman of the membership committee of Mendelssohn Club, Charles B. Finch, at 17 Pearl street, this city, giving full name and address with telephone call, if any, and to do so without delay.

Active membership in Mendelssohn Club carries with it many advantages. Not only do the members receive valuable instruction in sight reading and choral singing under the able leadership of Harry P. Dodge, the conductor—this training being of particular benefit to the young singer—but they form exceedingly pleasant social contacts that might otherwise be unavailable, and during the months of the late spring and early summer which follow the annual local concert of the club, there are generally a number of trips to nearby places where informal concerts are given in return for a good "feed" and an evening's hospitality. These trips making one of the most pleasant features of the club's activities. It is hoped that there will be a prompt and decided response to this invitation from the singers of Kingston who are not associated with Mendelssohn Club.

Ship's "Eyes"

"Eyes of a ship" is a term applied to the foremost part of the bow, so called from the ancient practice which still obtains in parts of the Mediterranean and elsewhere of painting a large eye on each side of a vessel's cut-water as an emblem to avert the evil eye.

Nutty Natural History

THE KIPPERED SNOPPLECRAB.

The female snopplecrab meets incoming liners off Fire Island, and lays her eggs in the smokestacks. The young ones are hatched while the boat is lying at the pier, and by the time they pass Fire Island again on the outward voyage are thoroughly kippered by the smoke. From that time until they return on the next trip the snopplecrabs do nothing but crab at the meals and the weather. They are useful, however, in keeping the type lice away from the cook's galley. This particular one is crabbing about the age of the salt pork he had for dinner.

His body is half a walnut with six clove legs. The nippers are cloves and split almonds, while his head is an undersized peanut. He uses a toothpick tail, pins for feelers, and rice with ink-spots for eyes. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (Tomorrow—The Librarian Tic-Toc.)

Crater Brings to Mind Ancient Idea of Hell

The news that Halemaumau, the hottest crater of the Kilauea volcano in Hawaii, is active again and has thrown up black dust clouds to a height of 7,000 feet, reminds me of my visit to the Pit of Everlasting Fire. That is what the name Halemaumau means, and it corresponds to its description, writes G. L. D. Jones. The Japanese liner in which I was making a ten-weeks' voyage from Hongkong to Valparaiso (incidentally, I believe, the longest passenger voyage in the world) not only called at Honolulu, but at Hilo, and from Hilo—a port in the making—I went with the few other white passengers on board by motor car to Kilauea and Halemaumau.

Our chauffeur was a Japanese of a Japanese-Hawaiian mixture. In his capacity for driving I had little confidence at the start, and out of his hands we were all very glad to get at the finish, more especially as the motor car itself had seen better days. It had been warm when I left Hilo (in whites and a sun-helmet). When the car stopped I was shivering with cold—on the tropic line, with an active volcano at my feet. There was a guest house for volcano visitors who wished to stop the night. All around was a black desolation of waste ground, striated by solidified tracks of lava from former eruptions. We picked our way down along a well-trodden path and suddenly we saw Halemaumau.

We were at the end of the world, and below us, was a vivid representation of the ancient idea of Hell. The pit was glowing with fire, red hot fire. It was cut up into sections of fire. Picture to yourself pools of red-hot fire, now suddenly agitated into fountains; rivers of red-hot fire, now overflowing their banks. Ten, twenty, thirty pools and fountains and rivers all blazing at once, all working at red-hot pressure, some suddenly becoming even more excessively angry than before. That is Halemaumau.

Greek Simplicity

Simplicity is another note of all Greek art. Like the simple life, however, its simplicity is the last term in a long series of experiments in pruning away all distractions. The Greeks knew far better than we do the tremendous power of reticence in any work of art which, to be thoroughly effective, must leave comment to the observer's imagination.—E. B. Osborn.

With Webster's Help

"I guess my daddy knows just everything," bragged little Walter to his playmate. Half an hour or so later he asked his father a question which the latter could not answer. Walter felt that he must fix it up somehow with his playmate, who was standing by, so he said, "Well, of course, my daddy doesn't know everything; but we got a dictionary that knows all the rest."

Thrashing Machines

The flail was the only instrument for thrashing grain known in very early times. The Romans invented a machine called the "tribulum," a sledger loaded with stones or iron drawn over the grain sheaves by horses. The first modern thrashing machine was that invented about the year 1732 by Michael Meckler, of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Strange People

A wealthy woman in Liverpool, England, and a great lover of dogs, was so attached to her pet that when it died she had the skin mounted and set up in a case. This curious lady is her constant companion when she travels. Another woman, when she travels, carries the ashes of her dead husband in a small box.

Of Earth's Early Ages

JUICY, PRIME MEATS IN LAY'S BIG SATURDAY SALE!

"What makes good meat?" we are often asked. The answer is too long for this limited space. You will be surprised to know how much (healthy cattle and scientific slaughtering as a basis) depends upon the retail butcher. It's the way we have of storing, handling, cutting and serving that makes this meat market stand out prominently as one well worth patronizing. We stick to our guns these pressing times, and keep up quality, at the same time lowering prices as far as is safely possible.

WALLKILL MINISTER WANTS ACTION ON CHURCH FORMULA

Wallkill, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1925.
Editor The Kingston Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Since you published so full an account of the suspension from the ministry of the Reformed Church, of the Rev. Homer L. Sheffer, of Saugerties, perhaps you will allow me space for a comment upon it. I do not complain of the action taken. The Classis of Ulster were sincerely anxious to defend the church against what were to them dreadful errors. It might never have happened if Mr. Sheffer had not insisted upon bringing his views to the attention of the Classis, in strict compliance with the formula signed by all ministers in the Reformed Church. This fact, disclosed in your account, has brought to the attention of our readers a situation in our church which is distressing to many who are by no means so radical as Mr. Sheffer. The formula, as it reads, requires every minister to consult his Classis about any points in which he is at variance with our Doctrinal Standards (a book of 74 pages), and never to make public such private views without their approval. If literally carried out, this would mean that our church would remain absolutely stationary. Each new idea, the moment it appeared, would be suppressed, just because it was new. Not many whose mind is at all open to the thought of the present day could remain in our ministry for a moment. The only reason there is any room to breathe, is because the formula, though continually signed, is in fact a dead letter. Seldom indeed does it occur to one of our ministers to lay his views before his Classis for approval. This is an undesirable situation. Dead letter or not, the formula must be signed. Since the Sheffer case has brought it to the notice of the public, the public ought further to be informed that many ministers in the Reformed Church resent this dead hand of the past weighing upon us, and look for the day when our church will welcome independent thought and freedom of investigation.

Respectfully yours,
EDDRED C. VANDERLAAN,
Acting Pastor,
Wallkill Reformed Church.

JUDGE CLEARWATER INVITED TO NEW ORLEANS.

Judge Clearwater, whose letter to the New York Times, and printed in The Freeman upon extrajudicial multiple taxation attracted the attention of judges, lawyers and bankers throughout the United States, has been invited to address the National Tax Association at its annual meeting in New Orleans on the 19th of November upon that subject. From all over the country there comes a strong commendation of his denunciation of the illegal, extortionate and confiscatory method employed by the tax commissions of forty-five of the states imposing taxes upon the transfer of any securities issued by corporations incorporated under the laws of states other than that of the decedent. Tens of thousands of instances amount to eighty-five per cent of the entire estate of a deceased person.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

In "Pretty Ladies" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now being featured at the Kenney Theater today and tomorrow, Director Monta Bell proves his claim as peer of any artist of his profession. Zasu Pitts is featured and Tom Moore is the criminal lover and husband. The assortment of short features include the Kenney News, Topics of the Day, a Novelty and a mile-a-minute comedy, and a musical program by Jimmie Connors and his band.

Dainty June and Her Horrie Revue feature the bill of vaudeville offered the last half of the week at the Opera House in connection with the presentation of the feature photoplay, "A Fight for Honor." Dainty June is surrounded by a talented company of singers and dancers. A big feature of this act is the novelty scenic effects used. The funny dancing crew featured with Dainty June proved a knock out in a pleasing comedy number.

At the Auditorium tonight William Fox presents "Folly of Vanity." Ethel Dore and Jack McHall have the leading roles.

ZUCCA TO FURNISH MUSIC FOR DANCEY DANCE

The Danbury, Conn., American Legion Post has come to Kingston to secure music for its Armistice Day dance on November 11 and has engaged Paul Zucca and his orchestra for the occasion. Mr. Zucca formerly lived in Danbury where he was one of the city's most popular orchestra leaders for years. Mr. Zucca will furnish a twelve piece orchestra.

A St. Louis dentist uses jazz music without first asking if. Not only may a patient's pain be relieved, but the music is as effective as the ordinary anesthetic.

Trapper Made Sudden

Change in Fight View

Tradition has it that most of the early trappers operating through the rocky mountains were serious characters. Such is far from the case, though. Many of them took great pride in exaggerating accounts of what they had encountered on their trips. A few even had a slant on life and would make a Mark Twain envious, says a contributor to the Freeman.

Joseph L. Meek was one of the best of these frontier humorists. One of his experiences which is generally credited concerns an attack made on his party by a band of hostile Indians. While sleeping for a moment the Indians were alerted as they were in the act of charging the trappers. The Redskins were but a few yards away and mounted. The trappers lost no time in mounting their guns and beating a hasty retreat. However, encountered some trouble with his mule which refused to budge.

"Don't stand your ground, boys!" screamed. "Stand your ground!" and whip 'em. Stand your ground! But the trappers failed to heed and you all the territory passed between themselves and the hostile Indians. About that time the mule, seeming to realize its danger, set its pedal extremities in motion. Within a short time Meek and the mule had caught up with the rest of the party. Another minute he passed them. Then he turned in his saddle and shouted back over his shoulder. "Come on, boys! We can't fight 'em. Come on, boys! Come on!"

Many Put in Work on Bamboo Carving

When you gaze upon a beautiful piece of bamboo carving, which is to be seen generally in the Oriental sections of the museums, you are beholding the work not of one man but of many. Each workman has his specialty and when he does his share of work he passes the piece over to another, who does that part which he is especially trained for. The man who does the Chinese characters does nothing else. Another does mountain scenery and if there are any animals introduced into the landscape they are cut by another, while portraits are taken care of by a workman who does no other kind of work. Before the work is laid out, the surface of the bamboo is treated by a rubbing process which proceeds with the aid of a brick of fine clay and the operation takes place under water. After it is carefully dried it is turned over to the artist who marks out the design from one workman to another as indicated above.

Circus Ball at Armory Tonight

"The Greatest Show on Earth" is here, the animals are stabled in the armory, the performers in their various quarters, all awaiting the magic hour of eight o'clock tonight to burst upon the eagerly expectant audience in their full splendor and marvelousness. A shout of "Here they come!" will go up as Prof. Zucca's clown band marches in at the head of the long parade, and that shout will be rapidly followed in turn by another of joy as the clowns come tumbling out to be followed quickly by other exclamations of wonder, awe, surprise, mirth, amusement and glee as the parade circles the armory and one after another of the performers pass. The elephant will be there, padding along, swinging his trunk from side to side and flapping his ears in anticipation of the laughter his act will get. Then the giraffe, craning his long neck to count the supporters of baby welfare in Kingston, and perhaps casually supplementing his dinner with a flower from someone's hair. Next the bear and the monkeys in their cages peering out around all ready for their monkey shines. These will be followed by the horses, careening on their hind legs, arching their backs and stepping so high that the fair equestriennes upon them will need all of their skill to remain in the saddle. All of the acrobats, tight-rope walkers, the strong man and the rest will be in the opening procession and last will come the golden chariots, drawn by Greek runners and attended by dancing girls. No one can afford to miss this gorgeous, glittering spectacle, so seats will need to be taken before eight when the show will start with a fanfare of trumpets and a roll of drums. And everyone should surely be there when immediately after the parade the ring master, Robert R. Roelle, steps to the ring and snaps his whip for the acts to start. To aid in the almost impossible task of identifying your best friend, there will be stunning looking programs. Peanuts, pop corn, pink lemonade, hot dogs and balloons will help to further the illusion of a real circus. In fact it would be impossible to find a more diversified and thoroughly amusing entertainment and nothing could be more pleasant than to be diverted by a large cast (nearly one hundred) for an hour, and then to be able to dance to, or enjoy, hearing two unsurpassable orchestras providing the jolliest of music for continuous dancing.

Great Writer's Nickname
The nickname "The Bricklayer" was given to Ben Jonson by his contemporaries. His father died a month previous to Ben's birth, and his mother subsequently married a master bricklayer. Jonson entered the University of Cambridge in his sixteenth year, but on account of straitened circumstances was obliged to leave college and assist his stepfather for a time as mason and bricklayer. It is said that he worked at the building of Lincoln's inn with a trowel in his hand and a book in his pocket—Exchange.

Taking It Calmly
They approached each other—one as pale as a ghost, the other blushing red as a cherry. Indifferent to the countless inquiring eyes that were upon them, they kissed each other. Suddenly a man strode forward, and before anyone could prevent it, he struck a sharp blow with the stick he carried, and the pale one rolled over and over. The other neither screamed nor fainted, billiard balls are used to that sort of thing.

Land of Hot Tamales

Americans traveling in South America soon became acquainted with the "hot tamales" south of the Rio Grande. They are of the maize-and-meat variety, put up in corn husks. But "the elder brother of all tamales" is the Mongolian rice tamale. In America it can be found only in Chinatown. It is wrapped in rush leaves and is made like a miniature pyramid of rice pulverized with pork, pinto nuts and chestnuts.

The largest tamale known is made in South America in the region of the Orinoco and the Amazon. It is called alilaka and is composed of minced chicken, chickpeas and pepper, well cooked and rolled up in banana skins.

I Trust Men
On face creams
Notice my results
By Edna Wallace Hopper

For 40 years I have consulted experts on the utmost in face creams. They have all been men, and mostly Frenchmen.

As a result, at a grandmother's age, I still have a baby skin. Many a young girl envies my complexion, soft and smooth and rosy. I searched the world to find these helps, and spent a fortune. Most women cannot do that. So I am placing at every woman's call the best helps I have found. In my busy stage life I am urging you to try them.

One is Youth Cream. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also the best that science can offer to foster and protect the skin. My own skin, envied by millions, shows how much it does. My Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. Both have the same essential ingredients. I apply the cold cream at night to foster my skin while I sleep. In the morning I use the vanishing type as a powder base, and as all-day skin protection.

Now I am old, yet no woman could want a finer complexion. That is largely due to my Youth Cream. I wish I could induce every girl to use it. I have done for the most when you use it. I will tell you a sample of my own skin when I mean to you. Clip the coupon now.

For Trial Tube
Mail this today to Edna Wallace Hopper, 12 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. I want to try Youth Cream.

Scenarios on Life's Principles.

At the Albany Avenue Baptist Church the pastor, the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, will begin this coming Sunday a series of Sunday evening sermons on "Christ's Principles of Life and Conduct." Christ did not give us a multitude of external rules to govern conduct, but he did lay down a few great controlling principles which we are to apply to every day life. It will be the aim of these sermons to set forth these great principles in a regular and practical way. The topics are as follows:—Non-umber 1, "Faith, or Trusting in God," November 8; "Humility or Open-Mindedness," November 15; "Simplicity, or Singleness of Heart," November 22; "Reality, or True Righteousness," December 6; "Love, the Governing Principle of Life," December 13; "Service the Evidence of True Greatness," December 20; "Sanctify the Measure of Justice."

Evidence Against It

A Chinese scholar asserts that America was discovered by his countrymen 1,000 years before Columbus came. This cannot well be a fact, since the invention of the laundry ticket was not only unknown to the redskins, but also to the Chinese.

MEN'S LIFE SPAN PUZZLES SCIENCE

Do Married Men or Bachelors Live Longest Not Answered.

New York—Which lives longer—the married man or the bachelor? Few other questions in vital statistics have been more widely discussed, says the New York Times. All information bearing on the subject has been studied by physicians, scientists, theologians, social welfare experts and criminologists, and with particular attention by the insurance companies.

The answer to this ancient question has a general and far reaching influence. If it is established that the chances of long life are greater for bachelors than for the married, both men and women will naturally be influenced in choosing between the two states. The moralist finds such statistics the basis for argument. For the insurance companies the question is a very practical one. Before millions of dollars are risked upon the expectation of life, the most reliable figures obtainable are gathered, regardless of trouble or expense.

Despite painstaking investigation, the problem today is still unsolved.

Hard Words for Bachelorhood.

One of the most distinguished advocates of the good influence of marriage on longevity, Dr. James Stark, registrar general of Scotland, said, after careful investigation, that "bachelorhood is more destructive to long life than the most unwholesome of trades." An array of figures has been quoted to prove this extreme view.

According to Doctor Stark's figures, out of every 100,000 married men between the ages of forty and fifty, 1,407 die each year, as compared with 1,835 unmarried men who die among a similar number in the same period. In the early ages from twenty-five to thirty-five years, the proportion of deaths among the unmarried men is even greater. Out of 100,000 married persons, including widowers, from twenty to twenty-five years old, 626 die every year while in the same number of unmarried persons between the same ages no fewer than 1,231 die annually.

According to other British statistics, the average number of deaths per year among unmarried men between the ages of twenty-nine and forty-six years is twenty-eight in every 1,000, while among married men in the same period the deaths are only 18.

A famous table prepared by Doctor Stark shows the contrast between the mortality of the married and the single is greatest between the ages of twenty and twenty-five, and varies considerably at subsequent ages. His summary of the yearly mortality per 100,000 is as follows:

Ages	Married.	Single.
20-25	626	1231
25-30	822	1484
30-35	865	1594
35-40	1167	1502
40-45	1407	1835
45-50	1704	2118
50-55	1954	2624
55-60	2014	2654
60-65	3563	4424
65-70	5293	6021
70-75	8156	10271
75-80	11785	14394
80-85	17888	19540

Some significant figures along this line have been collected by Bertillon, who formulated the familiar system of finger print identification of criminals. The investigations of the statisticians of many insurance companies point to similar conclusions.

Old Ones All Married.

The greater longevity of married men or bachelors is also pointed out by Christopher von Ruteland in his work, "The Art of Prolonging Life." This authority goes so far as to say that "there is not one instance of a bachelor having attained to a great age." He also asserts, as a result of his investigations, that "all those people who have become very old were married more than once." This condition, he says, applies to both men and women. Similar claims for the influence of married life upon longevity might be quoted indefinitely.

Some of the best minds of the age have studied the problem. The statisticians have quoted have been attacked, no less an authority than Herbert Spencer. The great philosopher accepted the statistics gathered by the Scotch statistician and others, but disagreed entirely with the conclusion that marriage itself prolongs life. "The experts of modern insurance companies," he is quoted as saying, "seem to agree with Spencer's reasoning."

The great mass of statistics on the subject indicates in the main that married men as a rule actually live longer than bachelors, and that the average married man in years is often considerably older than the bachelor. The best information available is that such is true in both America and Europe.

The question on the subject are probably answered by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the Prudential Insurance company of New York. He has found that the death rate among single men in America is appreciably higher than among married men.

Hon. Pierce H. Russell

Republican Candidate for Supreme Court Justice.

There are 175 members in the Rensselaer County Bar.

Judge Russell had the unanimous endorsement of the Rensselaer County Bar Association for Supreme Court Justice in 1921. There has been no endorsement of any candidate since in Rensselaer County or any other County of the District.

GOVERNOR MILLER said of Judge Russell when application was made to him to appoint Judge Russell to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Justice Chase to the Court of Appeals:

"That were qualifications, character or experience to be the guiding elements, there would be no doubt as to the selection of Judge Russell."

"I have heard of Judge Russell through many channels, and have no doubt of his qualifications."

The Governor pointed out, however, that the needs of the communities affected as well as the geographical phases of the situation must be considered.

Service such as Judge Russell has rendered deserves recognition. He should be elected to the SUPREME COURT BENCH.

Silver Always Prized

As early as the Revolutionary war, silver was the hope and joy of every homemaker. Even George Washington—doubtless at the instigation of Martha—sent all his old family pieces of silver from the ancestral home in Virginia, for his new home at the capital in New York. To be melted and remodeled into the newest and most elegant shapes.

Giant Ocean Fish

Well out of sight, but probably in the twilight zone, where food is most abundant and conditions are practically the same in all the oceans except the extreme north and south, live giant squids and cuttles of several kinds, the largest reaching a total length of at least 35 feet, with the body 20 feet long and 12 feet in circumference, and the eye opening 7 by 9 inches.

Got Change, All Right

A wealthy business man went to a rough camp for his summer vacation. The cooking was bad, the beds were bad, the insects were very bad. Upon his return he sat on the veranda of his palatial mansion enjoying a lake breeze and commended with himself after this fashion: "You go away for a change, and I'll say this—you never fall to get it."

Gunman Slain in Battle With Cop

Policeman Is Also Shot and His Recovery Is Doubtful—Battle Results in Attempted Motor Truck Holdup.

By Telegram to The Freeman, Union City, N. J., Oct. 30.—Police Lieutenant Emil Fuhrman "shot it out" with seven men today and when the smoke cleared away one of them was dead and the officer himself was seriously wounded. The other six men were arrested.

Fuhrman saw a patrolman exchanging shots with the occupants of an automobile speeding along Hudson boulevard. Fuhrman leaped on his motorcycle and gave chase. The fugitives' car turned turtle. When Fuhrman came up to arrest them the firing began.

The prisoners were locked up charged with atrocious assault and battery. The men were being made to identify the dead man.

Fuhrman, unconscious, and with a bullet in his chest, was taken to the North Hudson Hospital in Weehawken. The men whom Fuhrman engaged in the pistol battle were speeding away from the scene of an attempted motor truck holdup. In the automobile when it overturned were the gunman who was slain, his four companions and two kidnapped drivers.

The truck loaded with $7,000 worth of woolen piece goods, was en route for New York from Philadelphia. It was driven by William Yuengling. With him was a helper, William Walker. The truck was being conveyed by a sedan driven by Thomas J. Shortell of Paterson, agent for the Lyons Piece Dye Company of Lodi.

At North Bergen, the bandits armed, leaped on to the truck. They seized Yuengling and Walker and pushed them into their machine.

Meanwhile Shortell, in the sedan, summoned a policeman. The officer emptied his gun at the fleeing bandit car.

Fuhrman and another traffic policeman saw the speeding car. They gave chase. The fleeing touring car suddenly turned over while going 55 miles an hour.

Thinking all the occupants dead, Fuhrman, his companion officer and Shortell, alighted and went to the scene of the wreck.

One of the men whipped out a pistol and fired at Fuhrman. Fuhrman shot him dead. The others then tried to kill Fuhrman, one shot finally dropping him.

Four of the men arrested identified themselves as William Scherman, 28, New York city; Samuel Klein, 32, Brooklyn; David Sanders, 24, Jersey City, and Charles Cohen, 24, of New York city.

Fuhrman was operated upon at the hospital. His recovery is doubtful.

HANGS HIMSELF ON HIS FRONT PORCH WEDNESDAY

Louis G. Ogden, 26 years old and father of three children, left his home on a farm near Clarendon, Orange county, Wednesday night saying he was going to visit his mother. Then he hung himself on a post of his front porch. Ogden's grandfather had occasion to go out the porch and peering through the door he saw the young man hanging against the porch. He said, "Come inside Ogden, it's too cold out there." There was no response and the old man kept up his urging and finally walked over to the body and found it hanging from a rope. The reason for Ogden committing suicide is a mystery as he was in good health and had no business difficulties.

and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—Except for a slightly different arrangement of the speculative leaders, conditions in the stock market were practically unchanged today. Hudson and Studebaker took the place of Chrysler and General Motors as leaders in the motor groups. Sixties' Sheffield supplied U. S. Steel as the king pin in the steel shares; copper stocks forged to the front in one of the most spectacular advances in that section of the market with Anaconda in the lead; Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Pennsylvania, ordinarily inactive, made the best records in the railroad list. Later in the day Atlantic Coast Line made a gain of ten points and sold at a new high of 211.

There was no squeeze in the money market, though call money rates were firm around five per cent.

Some concern was felt in the financial district over the violent decline in cotton prices to below 19 cents a pound, resulting from the withdrawal of trade orders.

In the motor shares, Jordan reached a new high at sixty, completing a rise of nearly 12 points.

Timken moved up to 53 in active trading.

Anaconda advanced to above 49, up 2 1/2 points. Copper metal was marked up to 14 1/2 cents a pound.

The late trading developed some irregular movements, with weak and profit taking in the high priced specialties and industrials which have been moving forward since Monday morning. The public utility stocks inaugurated a new rally in this period.

SNOWFALL LIGHT HERE BUT HEAVY IN DELAWARE COUNTY.

Snow began falling about ten o'clock this morning but within the city it melted almost as soon as it touched the pavements. On lawns it melted less rapidly. Outside the city, however, it stuck to the roads in places although the temperature, which was above the freezing point, caused most of it to melt rapidly.

Delaware county has had a heavy fall of snow, which extends eastward almost to Pine Hill. At Stamford on Thursday there had been a fall of four inches and sleighs were much in evidence about the village.

Snow in New York.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Oct. 30.—The first snow of the season fell here today. Scattering flakes that melted as they hit the ground began to fall about 9:30 o'clock.

An hour later however, the snow swirled down in typical mid-winter fashion, giving promise of the season's first real snow fall.

Snow Falls in Philadelphia.

Indian Always Ready for Game of Chance
AN Indians of both sexes are in veteran gamblers. They have been known to gamble away everything they owned, including their wives and their lives, which is raising the white man's ante to a considerable degree. As a rule, Indian dice have but two sides that are marked. These markings are of a thousand and one different designs and colors. The dice are cast either from the hand, a cup, bowl or basket. Many of the dice are thrown on stones, either held in the hand or on the ground. The object of this is to make the dice bound over and over, thus insuring a fair cast. The Indian, even as does the white man and the African enthusiast, speaks enthusiastically of his gambling implements, bemoaning the Great Twin Brothers, the Spider Woman or whatever happens to be the deity presiding over that particular game of chance to cause "Lady Luck" to hover in his or her vicinity. Some of the younger generation living on the Grand reservation echo their own phrase, decidedly modern and the older men and women chanting gamblers seem so old that even the most ancient of the tribe had forgotten the meaning of the words.

Lee made 35 arrests in 22 cafes and private homes of Utica, Rome, Auburn and nearby communities and seized whiskey, beer and wine valued at over $18,000.

Today the best of federal men rushed to dry headquarters in the post office and began making evidence and preparing their cases for United States commissioner's court.

FEMININE SKILL NECESSARY TO HANDLE BOYS.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 30.—It takes a woman to handle boys and girls and the men will have to admit it, according to Charles H. Johnson, secretary of the New York state board of charities, speaking at the annual conference of the state association of child welfare boards today.

Mr. Johnson said regarding child welfare work:
"Feminine skill and feminine tact are necessary for this particular job. While a certain amount of masculine advice is necessary to put over a task of this sort, it must be largely in the hands of women. The child welfare movement has been a revolutionary thing. In the beginning it was opposition by organizations which should have known better. Now they are being shown their error."

Scotch Sailor Made Immortal by Defoe

Alexander Selkirk was a Scottish sailor whose adventures furnished Defoe the basis for his immortal story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk, having quarreled with his captain on one of his voyages, was left on the island of Juan Fernandez in 1704, with only his gun and ammunition, and a few other necessities of life. There he remained for more than four years, living on game, and clothing himself with the skins of goats. In 1709 he was rescued by Capt. Woodes Rogers, and became his mate. He afterwards attained the rank of lieutenant in the British navy. Defoe has often been charged with having surreptitiously taken the story of "Robinson Crusoe" from the papers of Alexander Selkirk, but the experiences of the real hero and those of the fictitious one have so little in common that Defoe seems indebted for little more than the suggestion.—Kansas City Times.

ST. MARY'S FESTIVAL HAS MANY ATTRACTIONS

The annual autumn festival and bazaar flared off Thursday evening at St. Mary's School Hall. This annual affair, one of the greatest social events of St. Mary's Church is looked forward to with much forethought, by members of the parish and friends and in the past their anticipations have been more than fulfilled.

From the amount of articles stocked at the several booths, the refreshments and the dancing, music being supplied by the Royal Entertainers, this year's festival will equal if not surpass other years, both socially and financially.

The festival is being held this afternoon for children and will be continued tonight and Saturday. There is a wealth of bona fide articles, with which to replenish the shelves and many are expected to take this opportunity to purchase Christmas gifts. The articles range from groceries to diamonds, and the display should meet the most exacting demands.

Much effort on the part of the decoration committee is evinced in the beautifully decorated hall. The decorations harmonizing with the season present an unusual scene of cheer and gaiety.

Cavanaugh Hit Truck and Boy

Joy's Lane Resident Arrested on Charge of Driving While Intoxicated—Case Adjudged for a Week—Negress's Case Held Open. This morning before Judge Harry E. Schirick in police court James Cavanaugh of No. 6 Joy's Lane entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of driving his automobile while intoxicated and asked for a week's adjournment to obtain an attorney. The request was granted and bail was fixed at $500.

Cavanaugh was arrested Thursday evening by Officer Relyea after Cavanaugh, according to the police record had driven his auto into a team of horses and truck driven by Michael Howard of 213 Elenndorf street, at the corner of Washington avenue and North Front street. Cavanaugh also ran down a boy named David Byrne of No. 30 Van Buren street, who was cut about the head and hands but not seriously injured.

Mrs. Bertha Hillis, a negress, of East Kingston, was arrested at Broadway and Strand Thursday evening on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was cut on the head and informed Officer Schirick that a negro named Jack Williams had struck her and knocked her down. The trouble had started at a negro ball held at Griffith's Hall on lower Hasbrouck avenue.

This morning Miss Hillis informed Judge Schirick that she had cut her head by falling. She said she did not know where Williams lived.

After hearing both her story and that of the officer, an adjournment was taken to Thursday morning of next week in order to give the police a chance to locate the negro ball was fixed at $50.

Colors Have Varying Effect on Surfaces

Considering the large influence colors exert upon us and the fact that we cannot afford to redecorate every few days if we do not care for a color scene, certain facts about colors should be well considered before any paint is purchased. On this subject an authority has said:

"Color materially affects the appearance of surfaces, according to the speed at which the light rays travel—reflective ability, that is. Red is an aggressive color, irritating to some. Blue, a receding color, is soothing. A dull red does not bring a surface, apparently, as near the eye as a brilliant red. Green is considered a static color, while gray, as well as green, unless influenced either by yellow or blue, retains the apparent position. Yellow appears to enlarge the size of an object or surface without changing its position. For this reason orange can make a surface appear smaller, depending upon the amount of red it contains, or larger if the yellow predominates. Violet can be either aggressive or receding, depending upon the amount of red or blue it contains. Light violet, like gray, is static unless it leans more to the red."

Famous Delhi Gardens Laid Out by Monarch

The Kudsia Bagh or the Kudsia gardens in Delhi, India, where tennis tournaments are held, were originally laid out in 1745 by Quddus Begam, the mother of Ahmed Shah, emperor of Delhi.

They have been well looked after, and although they cannot compare with the more ambitious pleasure grounds of the earlier Mughals, are well worth a visit. No wall adorned with serrated battlements encircles the grounds, nor is there any imposing entrance gateway which is a great feature of the larger pleasure parks.

In the center of the gardens, however, there is an old gateway. Now but a picturesque ruin, it was, a writer in the Montreal Family Herald understands, the gateway to Quddus Begam's palace, of which nothing now remains. To the southeast of this gateway there is another picturesque ruin—an old mosque which, though attached to the palace, was not included in it. In many ways the mosque is the more interesting of the two structures which give the gardens an air of bygone times.

Important Japanese Feast

The "Feast of the Banners" as celebrated in Japan is a holiday in honor of male children, celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth month, which is now May 5. On every house that can boast of a male child is affixed a pole of bamboo, and floating therefrom are one or more rafts made of paper. The exact number is determined by the number of boys in the household. The wind, blowing into the mouths of the fish, inflates them and makes them writhe and wriggle with a curiously lifelike motion. The fish are supposed to be carp, which in Japan are recognized symbols of health and long life. Other staffs support banners of every color with designs of the wind. Boys of all ages appear in the street in gala attire, some having little banners in their belts, some bearing on their shoulders huge carved wooden, gaily painted and decorated, and others carrying miniature lanterns.

Navy Has a Good Attack

Jack Owsley Uses His Adaptation of Yale System With Folwell's Pennsylvanian's Defense—Line-up Improves Eastern Football Critics.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—"We think we have something," said Jack Owsley today as the Navy made ready to enroute for Ann Arbor for the intercollegiate game with Michigan on Saturday. "Yes, sir. We think we have something."

Mr. Owsley thinks he has a first class football team. It has been Mr. Owsley's first chance to do much thinking of any kind and he is making the most of it. For years, he had been called the unseen force behind Yale football and his appointment to the naval academy this season afforded him the opportunity to come in to the open for first time.

The Navy gave Owsley 750 men playing football and a lot of them were big, fast and altogether adequate. Owsley in turn, has given the Navy an attack for the first time in years, using his adaptation of the Yale system with Folwell's Pennsylvania defense as a ground work.

In consequence, a lot of push-overs have been thoroughly pushed over during the early season and the single big game with Princeton ended in a tie.

Eastern football critics seem to agree that Owsley has taken over a competitive Pomeranian and made it into a competitive Wolfhound.

Players like Lentz, at guard; Shapley at fullback; Hamilton at quarterback and Banks and Flipp at the half backs have been around and about for some time without going anywhere—until the present season. This has seen Shapley develop into one of the best running and kicking backfield men in this section with Flipp, a former Center College man of slight repute, also coming along with his best.

There is no outstanding line player in this quarter, but the foundation of a staunch Navy running attack of tackle was laid at Annapolis some years ago by Bob Folwell. To this, Owsley has added deception and, in consequence, Shapley and Flipp have come into their own.

Lentz, an ex-Rutgers man, probably will never be any better than he is but his running mate, Edwards, has remarkable possibilities. He is surprisingly fast for a big man, giving Calkins, Princeton quarterback, a running start and then catching him in the open field. Bernstein and Eddy, tackles, and Hardwick and Bernet, ends, have come on very rapidly in recent weeks and right now are said to be as good as the next and better than most.

Joerner at center is steady and by some is said to be the keystone of the defense.

The strength of the line, however, seems to have been found in the number and quality of its secondary men, Williamson and Kaufman being rated almost on a par with Truslow and Kirk have been bottling Bernstein for the odd tackle post right merrily. Incidentally, Cross is making Captain Lentz step out with his best in order to hold his place at guard.

Army Line-up For Yale Game

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

West Point, Oct. 30.—McEwan announced today the line-up that will face Yale on Saturday.

For the first time in his four years of play, Scheffler is going to start one of Army's big games. His play lately has been more than satisfactory, and his hosts of friends will be glad to learn that he is to start.

The line-up, as announced by McEwan, will be as follows:

Right guard.....Hamman	Right tackle.....Saunders
Right end.....Bora	Quarter.....Yeoman
Full-back.....Scheffler

This backfield, though very strong, is not so far ahead of the other backfield, consisting of Harding at quarter, Trappell and Gilbreth at half backs, and Tiny Hewett at full-back.

physical condition. There is no doubt that both backfields will get into action.

Harbold, who played so well in the Notre Dame game, and Davidson have first call on relief ends.

London at center, Seeman at Heiser at guard, and Perry and Egan as tackles, will probably all get a chance.

McEwan will hold a short practice session in the Bowl at New Haven tomorrow.

Army Headquarters, until the game, will be at the Clark Hotel, Derby.
